Italians Launch Great Offensive by Land and Air

Move Heavy Forces into Epirus Battle To Lower Pressure from Koritza

But Greeks Are Firmly Entrenched and Expected To Give Invading Armies Much Trouble

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, Nov. 7.—Greek forces dug in tonight in their main fortifications near the Ionian Sea to fight it out with the Italians, whose grand assault appeared under way.

The Italians, launching a massive offensive by land and air, were reported to have established contact with the main Greek lines at some points on this extreme left of the slanting battlefield after the Greeks made a "slight" retreat to new positions.

Neutral observers said, however, the Greeks were firmly entrenched in their well-fortified emplacements blasted from the sides of the rugged mountains and that the Italians would have an extremely difficult time dislodging them.

Greeks Use Faster Planes

The Greeks disclosed the Italians also had thrown newer and faster bombing and fighting planes into the battle. Heretofore they had used planes which neutral air experts regarded as second-line craft.

Military experts said the Italians had moved heavy forces into the Epirus battle to divert Greek pressure from Koritza. Fascist base 100 miles to the north. Greek artillery is declared to have Koritza, ten miles inside Albania, under its control.

It was possible that Greek capture of Koritza might slow down or even halt the Italian coast drive through a rearguard threat.

Italians Blast Away At Greek Defenses

By The Associated Press

ROME, Nov. 7.—Over and beyond the angry Kalamas river by a notable feat of wartime engineering, the Italian armies in northwestern Greece attacked the defenders of Epirus with mounting force tonight.

More and more planes blasted the Greek defenses to try to clear the way to Ioannina (Janina), from ten to twenty miles from the flooded, winding stream.

Some 100 miles farther north, Italian officials said, Greek troops entrenched in the approaches to Philora were harassed by bombs and machine-gun bullets. These defenses, the high command said, lie mainly along the southern shores of Lake Prespa, where the Greek frontier meets Albania and Yugoslavia.

Face Many Difficulties

It had been eight days since Italian troops had reached the canyon-like bed of the Kalamas and during that time, military dispatches said, engineers and other troops daily had to surmount innumerable difficulties to lay the route for the further advance. Wooden sleds were built to move pontoons over the mountains for floating bridges.

Heavy rains had turned the river into a snarling torrent, 200 feet wide in places with the water rushing.

De Valera Refuses To Permit Use Of Irish Ports for British Bases

By The Associated Press

DUBLIN, Nov. 7.—Prime Minister Eamon De Valera emphatically rebuffed tonight the suggestion that Irish ports be opened as refueling bases for British warships and planes patrolling Atlantic commerce lanes.

Solemnly, de Valera assured the Dail (Parliament) that there could be no question of handing over or leasing the ports to British "under any conditions whatsoever" as long as Ireland remains neutral.

He asserted Ireland's intention to stay out of war, but declared, "we shall defend our right, no matter who shall attack us."

The Irish leader said his statement was prompted by a British press campaign—reached in the United States—following Prime

Russians Parade On Anniversary Of Revolution

Stalin Sees Mighty Forces in Review; Nations Warned

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Nov. 7.—Soviet Russia poured new guns and formations across Red Square today on the twenty-third anniversary of her revolution, and her defense commissar announced "at any moment, the Red army is ready to deal a crushing blow to anyone who dares to violate the holy frontiers of the U.S.S.R."

The army which paraded its choicest units past Joseph Stalin and his lieutenants has been reorganized in the last six months. The progress of its artillery—completely mechanized—was particularly conspicuous today.

Long range naval guns, howitzers, anti-aircraft pieces and a new cannon slightly larger than the standard 75 mm. gun appeared in the two-hour procession, while overhead, the bright wings of new low-winged fighter planes glistened in the sun.

Before the parade, the troops heard Semeon Timoshenko, defense commissar, declare that they would be called upon to crush any attack on Soviet borders, and key them to "maximum vigilance in an exceptionally alarming international situation."

It is under Timoshenko that Soviet Russia has built up her new military machine in the last six months while the other great Euro-

Willkie Carries Michigan by 6,056 In Complete Count

Returns from Rural Sections Give State to Republican

DETROIT, Nov. 7.—Michigan swung back into the Republican column nationally today on the basis of complete unofficial returns from the general election that gave Wendell L. Willkie a lead of 6,056 votes over President Roosevelt.

Late returns from rural Wayne and out-state areas, in the contest for Michigan's nineteen electoral votes, were sufficient to wipe out the lead the President had held, and put Willkie in front by a narrow margin.

Tabulators immediately began a re-check of results, and the errors they uncovered tended further to increase the Willkie advantage. In one county election officials discovered that results reported as complete actually included a count only of "straight ticket" votes.

Early tonight the revised totals showed: Willkie 1,031,860, Roosevelt 1,025,804.

Widespread ticket-splitting had delayed the count in all sections of the state.

With only ten precincts still to be tabulated for attorney general Herbert J. Rushton of Escanaba, Republican, forged back into the lead over Democratic Raymond W. Starr of Grand Rapids by a margin of 746 votes. Theodore I. Fry, Lansing Democrat, led Senator Felix M. H. Flynn, of Cadillac, his Republican rival for state treasurer, by 6,559 votes in another close race.

Contrasting with these were the majorities of Democratic Governor-elect Murray D. Van Wagoner, 130,000 votes over Governor Luren D. Dickinson, Republican; Republican Harry F. Kelly, 187,000 over Leo V. Card for secretary of state, and U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, re-elected by 98,000 over Frank Fitzgerald.

British Announce An Offensive in Sudanese Section

Report Heavy RAF Raid upon Brindisi, Italian Naval Base

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, Nov. 7.—The British announced today their first notable offensive thrust of the Sudanese campaign and reported a heavy RAF raid on Brindisi, naval base at the heel of the Italian boot.

Just on the British side of the frontier between the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and Ethiopia, the British middle-east command asserted, British troops surprised and recaptured the town of Gallabat, imprisoned part of the garrison, and held the position through a stiff Italian counter-attack and two heavy bombings.

The assault, it was declared, took but forty-five minutes and was launched early Wednesday morning by a mixed detachment of British and Indian troops supported by tanks, artillery and planes.

An unstated number of prisoners was said to have been taken. It was announced that seventeen soldiers of the Italian force deserted during the engagement.

Gallabat is a main trading post. The Italians occupied the town, which is some seventy-five miles west of Ethiopia's big lake Tana, source of the Blue Nile, shortly after Italy entered the war.

The reported raid on Brindisi was the first, although Naples, across the Peninsula, has been bombed twice since the Greek campaign began.

A communique said the raid took place Tuesday night, and reported that bomb bursts and steady fires were observed in the naval dockyard, destroyer and submarine pens, the main railway junction and railway sidings.

Assab, in Eritrea, also was raised, the communique said, the bombs starting a fire visible forty miles away.

World's Third Longest Suspension Bridge Falls

Drops 2,800 Feet into Puget Sound after Slowly Cracking Up

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 7.—The third longest single suspension span in the world, the new $6,400,000 Tacoma Narrows bridge, cracked up and fell with a roar 190 feet into Puget Sound today after swaying crazily in a high wind. It had a center span of 2,800 feet.

The bridge's last occupant, Leonard Coatsworth, a Tacoma News-Tribune reporter, leaped from his automobile after the first cable broke and crawled 500 yards to safety while the structure tilted at a forty-five-degree angle.

The car, occupied by Coatsworth's dog, plunged into waters of the sound.

The coast guard patrol boat Alalanta, near the bridge when it began to sway, reported that an automobile on the structure overturned and its occupants had difficulty getting ashore.

Many See Crash

Several hundred spectators, standing on the shore near the east approach, watched the steel cables suddenly give way and huge blocks of concrete begin to fall.

Officials said the structure was insured against "all risks" and that the state and bondholders would not lose. The span, completed only last July, was built by the state toll bridge authority, a division of the state government. It was financed originally through a $2,900,000 WPA grant and $3,520,000 in bonds sold to the Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The wind was blowing at about thirty-five miles an hour when the bridge started to disintegrate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Chairman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of the Republican National Committee, today declared that his party came very close to victory in the presidential election and that its defeat represented only a temporary setback in a "great crusade."

A communique said the raid took place Tuesday night, and reported that bomb bursts and steady fires were observed in the naval dockyard, destroyer and submarine pens, the main railway junction and railway sidings.

Many Parts of London Hit by German Bombers

Fire Breaks Out in Some Areas; Liverpool Attacked

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(Friday)—The nightly Axis air raid on London spread flare-guided incendiary and high-explosive bombs on the city from dusk last night until past midnight today, then gradually eased off to a prolonged lull broken only by occasional blasting interruptions.

Among places hit despite anti-aircraft fire from all directions were an ambulance depot, a shelter, a previously-bombed hospital, a block of apartments and a number of private dwellings.

A town in the western midlands also was raided.

The raiders—who during the day had beaten at Britain in three formations—opened the after-dark assault almost at the instant that the last thin echo of the air raid sirens died.

Soon, fires sprang up in the city and the tremendous burst of bombs shook many districts. The invaders came over in methodical and punctual raids.

20 Bombs Hit Garage

Late in the night a string of five high explosive bombs plunged down within a few hundred yards of streams of city traffic. Twenty bombs landed on a garage in the London outskirts.

Other bombing detachments assaulted the Liverpool area, an important center for England's sea traffic.

The air ministry officially claimed that two attacks upon the great naval base of Portsmouth had been intercepted and beaten off, and that a single major thrust at London had been turned back over the Thames estuary short of the capital during the day.

Not a single bomb fell during the day in the London area, the ministry added. It declared, too, that Portsmouth had come through without casualties and without damage.

Stocks and Bonds Rise Sharply on Treasury's Plans

Huge Government Borrowing and Spending Spurs Trading

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

Associated Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Shares of major corporations prices of federal and municipal bonds, together with those of leading farm crops, shot upward in today's markets in the wake of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's statement forecasting huge government borrowing and spending.

Prices in the New York Stock Exchange had the sharpest advance in more than a year. Gains of $2 to nearly $8 a share made it the widest gain since a surge of war buying on Sept. 5, 1939.

Wheat in the Chicago pit rose 3 to 5 5/8 cents a bushel, the grain for December delivery touching 87 3/4 cents a bushel, coming within 1-8 of a cent of the six-months top reached a fortnight ago. Cotton in New York rose seventy cents to $1.05 a bale, and wool, hides, rubber and most other staples traded in futures exchanges were higher.

Despite the expectation the federal government would issue many more billions of bonds, the treasury issues were heavily bought in Wall street at sharply rising prices. Demand for several existing issues was spurred by Secretary Morgenthau's statement he would ask Congress to remove from all future issues the tax exempt feature.

Some of the treasury bonds gained $10 and more per $1,000 par value, a number reaching the highest prices since they were issued. Demands also spread to tax exempt municipal issues. New York City bonds reaching new highs.

Republicans Gain Four More Seats In Upper House

Also Likely To Have Gain in Governorships, Returns Show

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Republicans counted four more Senate seats and a possible gain in governorships today to offset strengthened Democratic control of the House as a result of Tuesday's elections.

With two governorships races undecided, Republicans had elected fourteen state executives while the Democrats had won in seventeen states. A fifteenth Republican governor was chosen by Maine in September. In the undecided contests a Republican held a lead in one, while a Democrat was in front by a narrow margin in the other.

Of the thirty-four governorships at stake this year, including Maine, fifteen incumbents are Republicans and nineteen Democrats.

All Senate races had been decided, but one House decision was still unreported, with Rep. Hill (D-Wash.) holding a lead over Frank Miller, his Republican challenger.

Germany Refuses Guarantee of Safe Conduct to American Ship

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Germany's refusal to join Italy in giving assurances of safe conduct made it unlikely tonight that an American ship would be sent into the European war zone to bring about 1,200 United States citizens home from the British Isles.

The state department announced that Italy "very promptly responded favorably" to a request from the United States for a safe conduct. Germany, however, replied in a note delivered yesterday that it was "not in a position to furnish any sort of assurance of the nature requested."

In view of this, officials here indicated they could not assume the risks of sending a ship into the combat area.

Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, had called at the state department yesterday and expressed the hope that a vessel would be sent without delay to bring home an estimated 1,200 or 1,300 Americans seeking to return.

The variance in the positions taken by the Axis partners attracted interest in diplomatic quarters here.

Although Italian planes are said to be participating in the raids on Great Britain, the favorable Italian response was interpreted in some circles as an indication that Italy was more concerned with military operations in the Mediterranean area.

The request was made to Germany and Italy on October 27. It was planned to send the ship to a western Ireland port, probably Galway.

When the Italian reply was received, a copy was furnished to the

Roosevelt Likely To Appoint More Court Members

Several Expected To Resign During the Next Four Years

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—One possible result of the national election is that the number of Roosevelt appointees on the Supreme Court bench may increase.

Five members of the nine-man tribunal have already been chosen by Mr. Roosevelt and this number will grow to eight if all justices eligible for retirement actually do leave the bench during the president's incumbency.

Two of the present justices are eligible to retire now, and another will reach that status in two years. Of the four appointed by Mr. Roosevelt's predecessors, only sixty-five-year-old Owen J. Roberts will not have become eligible to retire when the next presidential term expires.

Members of the supreme court may leave the bench at full pay of $20,000 a year after serving ten years and reaching the age of seventy.

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes is 78, but he was told friends that he intended to remain on the tribunal as long as his health permitted. He is reported to be in good physical condition.

Friends of 78-year-old Justice James C. McReynolds say he has not made up his mind whether to retire. It has been understood that he remained on the bench for some time in the hope that the next president would not be a New Dealer.

McReynolds, the leading dissenter, is the only justice described by administration men as "conservative."

Justice Marian F. Stone, a Republican who has been one of the court's leading supporters of New Deal legislation, is 68 and will be eligible to retire October 11, 1942.

All of Mr. Roosevelt's five appointments were during his second term. They are Hugo L. Black, Stanley Reed, Felix Frankfurter, William O. Douglas, and Frank Murphy.

Republicans Gain

four at the present time. The Democrats will have sixty-six seats instead of 69 as in the present Senate.

The remaining seats will be held by Senator Norris (Ind-New) and Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis).

The latter won reelection after the closest fight of his political career. One of the Republican Senate gains resulted from the switch by Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota from affiliation with the Farmer-Labor party to the Republicans. Shipstead, defeating the Farmer-Labor candidate, left that party without representation in the Senate.

Democrats won 266 of the 435 House seats, with the Hill seat in Washington's fourth district still undecided. Republicans elected only 162. In the present House there are 258 Democrats, 167 Republicans, 20 Progressives, one Farmer-Laborite, one American Laborite and six vacancies. Of the vacant seats three formerly were filled by Democrats and three by Republicans.

Progressives increased their House representation to three, and other seats went to one Farmer Laborite, one American Laborite and one independent Democrat.

The undecided governorship races were in Kansas and Washington. In Kansas, complete unofficial returns gave William H. Burke, Democrat, a narrow lead over Gov. Payne H. Rafter, Republican incumbent.

In Washington, Arthur B. Langlie, Republican, was ahead of Clarence C. Dill, Democrat. The present Washington governor, Clarence D. Martin, is a Democrat.

The outcome of the congressional elections gave the Republicans more Senate seats than they have held since 1934, the Democrats have held control of the House since 1930 and the Senate since 1932.

Many Parts of air battle for Britain "a few casualties" were officially acknowledged.

Seven Planes Shot Down

Up to tonight seven raiding planes were reported shot down against five British craft, but it was announced that every British pilot whose machine went down was himself safe.

During the day it was disclosed that one of London's most famous churches—the censorship prevented a precise identification—had been hit in last night's raids while hundreds of men and women and children stood singing in its crypt.

Not one was hurt so far as could be learned and when the ambulance drivers reached the church they found the people still singing, lifting their voice in "Annie Laurie."

A REMINDER TO JOHN L. LEWIS

This banner "accepting the resignation" of John L. Lewis, CIO chief, was stretched across the entrance of the United Mine Workers building in Washington after President Roosevelt's victory was announced. Lewis, backing Wendell L. Willkie, said he would not seek re-election if the people failed to follow his counsel.

British Government Hints Planes May Soon Attack Capital of Italy

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The government made it clear today that Britain would "reserve full liberty of action in regard to Rome" since Italian fighters now have joined the Germans in bombing attacks on London.

This unamplified observation on the status of the Italian capital was made by R. A. Butler, under-secretary for foreign affairs, while signs indicated that the Royal Air Force was urgently preparing to increase—not lessen—the tempo of its counter-attack.

Nothing short of control of German airways and a complete "bomb blockade" of Nazi heavy industry, said one British air observer, is the British winter and spring aim. A step to a possible attempt to fight to the decision then with field armies.

The air ministry reported new bombing thrusts to the outskirts of Berlin at vital areas far inside Germany and along the blackened Nazi-held coastline.

Industrial plants in Spandau, a Berlin suburb, were heavily attacked in overnight raids, the ministry said, and a railway junction northwest of the German capital also was bombed.

Other British bombers were declared to have assaulted a Nazi convoy of eight or nine big motor vehicles, each averaging some 4,000 tons, off den Heider, Holland, and attacked at these other far-separated points.

home, and found that Washington had organized a welcome home party. Union station plaza was jammed with a crowd which police estimated at 50,000 to 60,000 and the national guard was out. From the station to the White House crowds thronged the president's route, sometimes as much as twenty deep.

Another crowd was waiting at the White House grounds. Before proceeding, Mr. Roosevelt stopped on the Plaza long enough to express his thanks.

"My old friends of Washington," he said, "I am as if we myself and Mrs. Roosevelt were new people. Your turning out to see us means that we are getting on pretty well. And we are happy to be back here for a little bit longer. You all know how very much we like farm life, but of all the cities, we would rather live in Washington, D. C., than any place else."

Draft Increase Likely

A little later, Secretary Morgenthau met newspapermen at the treasury and announced the coming request to Congress for an increase in the national debt limit. A raise to $50,000,000,000 or $55,000,000,000, he said, would cover the possible deficits up to June 30, 1942. Congress also may be asked, he said, to remove certain restrictions which were placed upon the financing of the last debt limit increase of $4,000,000,000. It will be urged, too, to make future issues of federal, state and municipal bonds subject to taxation.

At the capital, Senator Byrd lost no time in making known his opposition of the debt limit plan.

"It is not necessary to increase the debt limit by twenty billions at one time," he said. "If this is done it will be an incentive for further extravagance in government. Under no conditions should it be necessary to raise the debt limit more than five billions at one time."

However, he approved Morgenthau's proposal that future security issues be subject to taxes.

The president's conference with Purvis stimulated speculation that aid to Britain may be increased. Purvis himself, told reporters he was flying back to England, and undoubtedly would return soon with more orders for war materials.

Purvis thought Ickes' resignation from the cabinet would be accepted. He took similar action after the 1936 election.

Churchill Asserts British Need Many More Destroyers

Admits Nazis Are Preventing Many from Doing Convoy Duty

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The first two pages of this dispatch, dealing with Britain's recently-increased ship losses to U-boats and German planes, were stopped by the British censor. The remainder of the story follows:

Prime Minister Winston Churchill has admitted that the length of the German-held continental coastline has kept many warships otherwise available for convoy duty busy on patrol.

Naval observations also point to the increased number of Atlantic bases now available to the German navy. Some of these, like Brest, have submarine anchorage and repair facilities.

Another aid to the German undersea campaign has been the restricted number of British destroyers available.

The death of destroyers has forced available warships to remain close to their convoys, foregoing pursuit or detection of U-boats at any distance.

A young intelligence officer of the submarine division finally solved the German method of attack by working it out from data supplied by rescued mariners and returning destroyer officers.

The navy thus knows the danger, and admits the need for more and more destroyers—"hundreds of them" as the remedy.

The submarine still is no match for a destroyer on the surface or under water when the number of destroyers guarding a convoy makes it possible for one to leave its charges and chase the submarine.

Pershing Sure People Will Help Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—John J. Pershing, general of the armies, today declared he had no doubt that the American people would unite behind the newly-elected president.

In a letter to Raymond Gram Swing, chairman of the board of the Council for Democracy, New York, he said:

"To my mind an appeal to the people of the United States for unity is quite unnecessary. Every four years since George Washington we have had a campaign followed by a general election to choose our chief executive. That the people will now unite behind the new president, does not admit of doubt. It is the American way."

Navy Takes Action To Prevent Sabotage

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—In an apparent effort to prevent sabotage or spying at the navy department here, photographers were set to work today to take photographs of persons employed in the building.

It was reported that the employees, and other persons having daily business at the department, would be required to wear their photographs on badges, and that infrequent callers would have to get special passes to gain admission.

The war department, it was indicated, would follow suit.

Soldier Tells of Death of Woman In Suicide Pact

George Williams on Trial for Death of Mrs. Ella Carroll

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 7 (AP)—An army private who testified he entered into a "suicide pact" with the mother of three children told in Circuit Court today how he survived and his companion died.

Charged with first-degree murder, Private George F. Williams testified the woman he loved, Mrs. Ella Carroll, Washington, succumbed to carbon-monoxide poisoning in his parked automobile near Fort George G. Meade last June 23.

A hose directed the exhaust fumes into the closed car, Williams said. He regained consciousness in the machine, he said, and found Mrs. Carroll unconscious on the running board. Although the fumes gave him a severe headache and affected his eyes, Williams said he placed her inside the car and ran for help.

Stopped Passing Car

He had to lie down in emergency road to get an automobile to stop so he could get aid, Williams testified.

Both he and Mrs. Carroll, he said, had talked of committing suicide "on and off" during the last six years of their twelve-year friendship. Mrs. Carroll was separated from her husband when she entered into the suicide pact, Williams asserted.

Defense counsel informed Judge Ridley P. Melvin that Mrs. Carroll's religion prohibited her from seeking a divorce.

Williams said he and Mrs. Carroll rode to a cabin on the Washington boulevard June 23 where they discussed a suicide pact and decided to drink and "get it over with."

She Selected Place

While riding on a side road after visiting several places, Williams quoted Mrs. Carroll as saying "this is a good place as any."

Defense counsel said Williams, stationed at Fort Meade for more than sixteen years, had a good army record and had never been in trouble before.

State's Attorney Marvin I. Anderson argued that the crime was first-degree murder and cited out-of-state cases in which survivors of suicide pacts had been convicted of first-degree murder.

Nazis Predict Fiercer Blockade Of the Coast of Great Britain

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Authoritative German quarters forecast tonight an even fiercer counter-blockade of Britain, claiming at the same time that considerably more than a third of the shipping space available to the British at the outset of the war already had been destroyed.

In the aerial phase, bomb hits were reported scored today on eleven ships, one of them a cruiser, and one of the merchant ships sunk. New construction and use of foreign ships are insufficient to cover Britain's growing ship losses, said the commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland.

Through use of planes, submarines and surface raiders, the claimed rate of destruction now stands one-fourth higher than that of the unrestricted World War campaign against ships if Britain, her allies and friends.

The aerial phase was illustrated in a report that German bombing planes smashed today at four convoys off the British coast with the following results:

Northeast of Norwich: Six ships hit, two fired.

Off Harwich: A 5,000-ton ship hit by two bombs.

South of Eastbourne: A convoy attacked with results unknown.

Thames estuary: A British cruiser seriously damaged; a 4,000-ton freighter sunk; a 5,000-ton freighter hit and a armed escort vessel of about 10,000 tons bombed.

The "retaliatory" bombardment of London continued, with attacks too on other objectives up and down England and in Scotland and Wales, despite persistently bad weather. Military important objectives were hit, it was reported officially. Three British fighting planes were listed as shot down and one German plane was missing.

Dienst Aus Deutschland declared that a stepping up of the air-sea counter-blockade could be expected.

Two Children Killed As They Leave Bus

FERNDALE, Md., Nov. 7 (AP)—Theresa Miles, 7, and Richard Hoffman, 6, both of Orchard Beach, Anne Arundel county, were killed today when they were struck by an automobile as they were alighting from a school bus.

The girl was dead upon arrival at the south Baltimore General Hospital and the boy died a few minutes later.

Sergeant John Whitney and Patrolman John Bohm of the Ferndale police said the driver of the automobile was Mrs. Hilda G. Ruth, 46, of Riviera Beach.

Charged with causing the death of the children and with failure to stop when approaching a schoolbus discharging passengers, she was held in default of $1,000 bail, the officers said.

The children were students at Rosa Lima school in Brooklyn. Daniel Household was driver of the bus.

Alaska Growing

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 7 (AP)—A preliminary census total set Alaska's population at 11,911, compared with 59,278 ten years ago, census Supervisor J. P. Anderson said today.

The territory's rate of growth during that time was 21.1 per cent, exceeded only by Florida and New Mexico in the United States, he said.

Many Volunteers Swell Ranks of Regular Army

Enlistment Drive is Reported Two Months Ahead of Schedule

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—Nearly two months ahead of schedule, a record influx of volunteer recruits swelled the ranks of the regular army today to full personnel strength, past the goal of 375,000 soldiers set by Congress.

An intensive enlistment drive will be continued, however, with little slackening of pace, officials said, toward a tentative new strength objective of about 431,000.

War strength requires an average additional expansion of units by about fifteen percent. More recruits are needed also for the air corps, and as replacements in other branches.

Providing a nucleus of professional soldiers for the million and a half men expected to be summoned by next summer, the regular army is composed of men serving three-year enlistments. Drafted men will serve but one year. The national guard was ordered mobilized for the same period.

The regulars have been almost doubled in number within a year. Congress provided the funds for expansion to 375,000 men last summer, General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, estimating then that the requisite number of volunteers would not be obtained before the year's end. Subsequently the top limit on the regular army was lifted entirely.

Records for both peace and war time were broken in exceeding the schedule. Thus far 43,077 recruits have been reported for October, the largest number for any single month even in the World War, and officials said final returns would show several hundred more.

Men registered for the draft still are being accepted for three-year enlistments in the regular army. Relatively few took advantage of the opportunity to sign up for a single year, in effect for a few weeks before registration day. For the regulars 1,338 were accepted and 12,464 for the national guard.

Man Held for Threats To Kill President

DENVER, Nov. 7 (AP)—A federal complaint charging that he threatened the life of President Roosevelt was filed today against Frederick C. Pinkenburg, 33, elevator operator in a Denver office building.

Thomas J. Morrissey, U. S. District attorney, said three rifles, several speeches by Adolf Hitler printed at Hamburg, Germany, and a swastika flag were found in Pinkenburg's room.

Morrissey reported that the arrest of Pinkenburg, also known as Carl Kline, resulted from complaints by neighbors and tenants in the office building where he worked.

"It is my understanding that the president ought to be killed and that he would do it," the district attorney said.

During the Middle Ages, there was a penalty of one year's imprisonment for stealing a swan's egg in England.

Meat Shortage Serious in France

PARIS, Nov. 5. (Via Berlin: Delayed.)—Meat shortages have brought new restrictions to the Paris district.

Serving of beef or mutton, hither to allowed on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, is forbidden for dinner except Sunday night. Rabbit and fowl, on which there have been no restrictions, may be served for dinner only on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Experts said the decline in Paris supplies is due chiefly to sales outside the capital for higher prices.

ON HIS RECORD

For Once the Dumb Detective Knows What To Do, and the Captain Gets the Surprise of His Life

By JAMES O'HARA

Capt. Hank Jarvis, who was ordinarily one of the most affable men on the police force, provided that it wasn't time of stress, was completely burned up about something. Detective Sergeant Pete Coombs could see that the minute he entered the captain's office, and likewise make a good guess as to what it was all about.

He mentally put his guard up and squared off for some fast sparring with his superior. The mayor had called the captain in that morning—and that meant only one thing! "You know what I called you in for, Coombs," his superior fumed. "Ten years a sergeant and you can't come through with a little ordinary detective work! What have you done on the Barclay case?" His blue eyes snapped accusingly at the detective.

"It would only be a fast round trip"

"I've spent two months tracking down everything I could find to connect him with the labor racket, Captain," Coombs offered uncomfortably.

Capt. Jarvis snorted. "Then why haven't you made an arrest?" he demanding with increasing ardor. "His Honor comes jumping all over me just because, with elections coming on, the press has been crusading against rackets. That's just good newspaper policy, but it puts every one from the mayor to the recruit policeman in a very, very unfavorable light."

Coombs scratched his lean jaw. "We got a lot of good material, but we sort of got stymied, Captain." "Good material!" Jarvis scoffed. "Why haven't I seen any of it? I tell you, if the mayor keeps on being as hot under the collar as he was talk to. I'd be sprung so fast it wouldn't be funny—especially not for a cop who stuck his neck out too far."

"Listen, Barclay, it won't get either of us anywhere to argue. My orders were to bring you in, and maybe a little charge of income tax evasion might interest you."

Barclay's eyes tightened at that. "What are you trying to do, frighten me?" he demanded with a short laugh. "My taxes were reported correctly ever since I made enough money to be taxed! I've got a legitimate business here, you know."

"Sure I know, but I also know a few things, including where and how you received enough money from the cleaning and dyeing business, the teamsters' union, the paving union and various other labor organizations in town to put you behind federal prison bars for 20 years!"

"What are you talking about?" Barclay asked, wary of the detective's angle.

Coombs laid his cards on the table. "It just happened that nearly a month ago we found the place your bookkeeper had hidden several nice, neat and complete ledgers of your outside income, Barclay. If you'll come in now without any fuss and take a small rap, I'll guarantee that they'll be destroyed."

Barclay was silent for a moment. "I'll come, copper," he said, then, quietly, "I can't buck the federal setup."

"Why, you big lunkhead!" Capt. Jarvis stormed at Coombs when he brought Barclay in without trouble. "We can find two dozen charges to hang on Barclay without even straining. Why should we destroy really valuable evidence? I ought to send you out to the sticks for being so dumb."

For once Detective Sergeant Coombs stood on firm ground. He even smiled a bit sadly at his captain.

"Because three weeks ago, unfortunately, on the same day we brought in the record books," he reminded Jarvis, "we had a little fire in the record room—and those books were among the missing after the firemen had the blaze put out."

Bedford County P-TA's To Meet Tomorrow

The first semi-annual meeting of the Bedford County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations will be held at Coalfield borough high school at Coalfield, Bedford Township, Saturday, at 10:30 a. m. Each association is requested to present a report of last winter's work. There will be a departmental lunch for officers, delegates and friends. The lunch will be served between 12 noon and 1:30 o'clock. The Broadtop Township school will present the entertainment for the afternoon. Miss Hall, Roaring Spring, will entertain the group with a piano solo.

The guest speaker will be Mrs. Catherine Hall, president of the Blair County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations.

Claude Mowery, county president, urges all associations to send delegates prepared to present at least one situation in which their association would like some help. Mrs. Fred E. Shoemaker, Everett, will discuss formation of Parent Education study groups.

Neat, Double-Panelled Frock

Marian Martin

PATTERN 9555

Modern matrons—attention! Here's just the style you're looking for—Pattern 9555 designed by Marian Martin. This short or three-quarter sleeved dress is so smart that, although it's perfect in cotton for home wear, you'll probably want to stitch up another afternoon version in, say, a soft crepe. The long twin panels down the front slim your figure magically; so do the waist-seams that point up at either side. Notice the softness of the side bodice sections, darted at the shoulders. The youthful revers-collared, together with the panels, may be in contrast. Whether you let a zipper go down the center, or just use a button trim, no side placket is required. Ric-rac makes a gay finish.

Pattern 9555 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3½ yards 35 inch fabric and 2½ yards ric-rac.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address and style number. Smart, exclusive style is yours—at low, sew-at-home cost—in the Winter Pattern Book by Marian Martin. Dozens of easily made outfits for every purpose are colorfully presented, with stunning afternoon and after-dark frocks, trim tailored modes, gay sun or snow-bound vacation wear. There are office and campus wardrobes... workaday and "dress-up" styles for matrons of every age... vivacious young-world clothes. Order your copy now! Book fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Send your order to Cumberland Daily News, Pattern Department, 282 W. 18th St. New York, N. Y.

Complete Burial Vault For Will Rogers' Body At Oklahoma Birthplace

Claremore Prepares Last Resting Place for Famous Humorist in Front of Memorial Building Dedicated Two Years Ago

By MALVINA STEPHENSON
Central Press Correspondent

CLAREMORE, Okla., Nov. 6.—Will Rogers is coming home.

The body of the famed cowboy humorist who crashed with Wiley Post in Alaska in August of 1935, soon will be returned to the memorial hillside where he had hoped to retire.

Oklahoma home folk, stunned at first by the tragedy, later began to plan a suitable monument and final resting place for their favorite son. Rogers' widow donated the tract overlooking Rogers' beloved city, and the state dedicated a beautiful memorial building on Rogers' birthday, Nov. 4, 1938.

Now, the state Will Rogers commission is working closely with Mrs. Rogers in preparing a burial vault in front of the memorial building. Completion of the permanent sanctuary is expected in a few months and the body will be removed from its temporary resting place in the Wee Kirk O' the Heather in Glendale, Cal.

N. G. Henthorne, chairman of the state Will Rogers commission, points out that every effort has been made to create a "wholesome environment" in the construction of the vault, exemplifying both the dignity and simplicity of the Will Rogers character. And there has been unanimous approval of the ranch-style building, done in native stone and containing many of the personal treasures of the late humorist-philosopher. Visitors to the memorial are reverent and awe-struck at the striking likeness of the Jo Davidson statue of Rogers in the memorial foyer.

Various Heart Disturbances Are Discussed

Not all "heart attacks" are serious. Any time anyone over the age of consent nowadays gets suddenly sick, it is reputed to be a "heart attack," although it may really be anything from gallstone to a sprue.

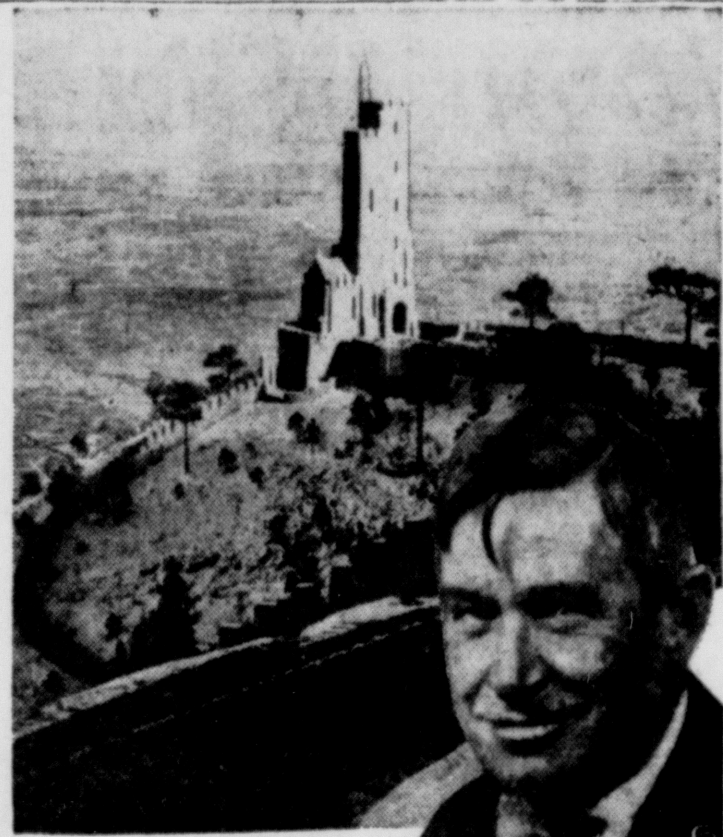

The heart does some peculiar and alarming things, but (as I say, the outlook may not be so grave. There are the minor heart emergencies—faints and flutters and "vapours," as our Victorian ancestors called them.

These sudden upsets are either self-limited, stop spontaneously, or respond to some simple medication. A thorough knowledge of such situations is quite reassuring. It is important to know when and when not to use certain remedies, and when not to get excited.

Fainting Spell
The plain, simple domestic or garden faint has been divided by my learned colleagues into a number of categories. The one that most of you call a "fainting spell" is called by them a "reflex circulatory disorder." Emotional disturbances, or excitement will precipitate them.

I used to examine candidates for life insurance quite often, and many times one fainted during the examination. Once I was examining the pulse, and I had a finger on the wrist and both eyes on my watch, so I didn't notice the condition my client was getting into. I did notice, however, that the pulse completely stopped and I looked up just in time to catch him.

Another time I was taking the blood pressure, and again my eyes were directed away from my client's face, watching the mercury column which went down and down. I said to myself, "The man has no blood pressure at all"—and looked ences comes to a standstill. It is a physiological axiom that if the brain is deprived of blood for five seconds, unconsciousness is bound to occur.

If the patient is put flat on the back, the circulation to the brain will be restored and the heart will resume its rhythm.

Aromatic spirits of ammonia is the aid first thought of in this emergency. It owes its effectiveness to the fact that it irritates the mucous membranes, causing reflex stimulation of the heart, is rapidly absorbed and raises the blood pressure and stimulates the heart through the nerve centers.

Questions and Answers
Suffering, San Francisco, Cal.—"What about getting a stiff neck while driving a car for several hours?"

Answer—There must be some postural defect while you are driving—a badly adjusted seat, for instance.

I'll Show You How It's Done

One of the biggest hits on Broadway this season was two hours of mystery and fun with a goateed, keen-eyed old gentleman named Dante. The name of the show is Sim Sala Bim. Dante, whose real name is Harry Jansen, says "Sim Sala Bim" isn't oriental but a phrase from his native Danish meaning "thanks a thousand times." Dante has just returned from fourteen years abroad.

1. In one of Dante's illusions he "shows you how it's done." The audience gets this "backstage" glimpse of a young lady supposedly hiding from the "audience" painted on the backdrop.

2. The boxes have been shown empty. Now we see from "behind the scenes" how the girl gets in. We're going to find out how a magician fools us. Or are we? What's this?

3. Where did this Chinese boy come from? And where did the girl go? Looks as though we've been fooled again. Dante invented this trick himself, like it best of all.

Queen of Puppets, 'Exile' Over, Sees Big Boom on Little Stage

By MARGARET KERNODLE
AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK—Puppets are here again. It's taken them about 25 years to make a comeback but they're going strong.

They've drifted into story-telling hours in public libraries, invaded not only craft studies but visual education, too. They're playing their part in occupational therapy, big-time advertising, television. And they rank among outstanding hobbies.

Rufus Ropes puppets are bringing in dollars all along the road from Connecticut to Minnesota. Martin and Olga Stevens don't do badly with their religious drama when they head out from Indiana each year.

In Many Fields

The other day 150 women executives from a dozen states learned from a puppet show how the New York Altrusa club is developing a research line of jobs for women over 35.

And last year the English department of New York University's Washington Square College proudly presented a marionette production designed for undergraduate students before the Modern Language Association.

This English department has a six-year-old workshop, the first in an academic college. Catherine F. Reighard, its organizer and director, was "drafted" into puppetry by her former pupils of Detroit, Mich., who set up a commercial company.

She wrote plays for them, even published a book, "Plays for People and Puppets."

Collected Puppets Abroad

Director of a puppet company which got lost in the depression, Miss Reighard found that to make a success of the business she had to be designer, director, actor and business executive or else have the money to pay such people. She earlier had carved as her first professional puppet—a miniature Beatrice Lillie which the actress liked so well she used it in a play.

Miss Reighard traveled abroad to collect puppets from Prague, Moscow and Paris. And like other puppeteers she's watched the revival change from miniature mystery productions to a point where approximately 200 amateurs and professionals will be publishing their 11th annual yearbook in December.

There's one other milestone of progress, too. A law which banning a puppet show at Rye, N. Y., passed Miss Reighard from present in 1930, since has been repealed.

It is estimated that more than 1,200 languages have been spoken at one time or another in the Americas.

In 1933 the number of visitors to United States national parks numbered 3,490,540. Number for 1940 is already over 16,000,000.

Utility Tax Collections Distributed to Cities And Counties of W. Va.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Distribution of $3,278,500 to sheriffs of fifty-four West Virginia counties was started today from first half collections of 1940 utility taxes, Auditor Edgar E. Sims announced.

The only county not sharing in the distribution was Putnam, which had received a $40,000 advance last month.

The auditor's office also distributed $227,375 to 154 municipalities from the collections.

Harry C. Deisher, chief of the utility tax department, said the payments were about the same as those in previous years.

Collections to date, he said, total $3,120,490.83 out of an expected total of about $10,011,000. A payment of $25,000, about half of the state's share, already has been made to the state general fund, Deisher said.

Among distributions to municipalities were: Huntington, $25,000; Huntington Board of Park Commissioners, $5,000; Charleston, $30,000; Clarksburg, $8,000 in addition to an earlier allotment of $2,000; Martinsburg, $2,000; Bluefield, $10,000; Princeton, $4,000; Morgantown, $6,000; Wheeling, $20,000; Elkins, $2,000; Hinton, $6,000; Grafton, $2,500; Parkersburg, $5,000; Fairmont, $7,000; Kenova, $10,000.

Utility Tax Collections Distributed to Cities And Counties of W. Va.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Distribution of $3,278,500 to sheriffs of fifty-four West Virginia counties was started today from first half collections of 1940 utility taxes, Auditor Edgar E. Sims announced.

The only county not sharing in the distribution was Putnam, which had received a $40,000 advance last month.

The auditor's office also distributed $227,375 to 154 municipalities from the collections.

Harry C. Deisher, chief of the utility tax department, said the payments were about the same as those in previous years.

Collections to date, he said, total $3,120,490.83 out of an expected total of about $10,011,000. A payment of $25,000, about half of the state's share, already has been made to the state general fund, Deisher said.

Among distributions to municipalities were: Huntington, $25,000; Huntington Board of Park Commissioners, $5,000; Charleston, $30,000; Clarksburg, $8,000 in addition to an earlier allotment of $2,000; Martinsburg, $2,000; Bluefield, $10,000; Princeton, $4,000; Morgantown, $6,000; Wheeling, $20,000; Elkins, $2,000; Hinton, $6,000; Grafton, $2,500; Parkersburg, $5,000; Fairmont, $7,000; Kenova, $10,000.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

KIT FELT hurt, so hurt she wanted to cry without knowing why. She thought it was because she had wanted to create an atmosphere of gaiety and ease between Vance and herself and she couldn't and the way it wasn't gaiety, it was propinquity, but she didn't know that was what was lacking. "How much work do you do, Kit?"

"Oh, Vance, what has work got to do with everything? I hear nothing but work all day."

"Work has everything to do with it, baby. No work, no checkie. No checkie, no shirtie."

"I work," she assured him. "I'm learning harmony, and I spend three hours a day with my coach going over the two songs I sing, songs I've been singing all my life."

Silence followed her words. Vance glanced at his wrist watch. Kit was beginning to feel desperate. She said, "If you've got that pipe you spoke about, you may smoke if you like."

He said, "Thanks."

The business of getting a pipe going involves many operations. When Vance had his going and had settled a little deeper in his chair, Kit said demurely, "I can almost believe now that you are the kind of man who likes to spend an evening with his books."

"I often do."

Kit could talk about books if he wanted to. Kit could have talked about the New York Giants, the Yankees, or the Red Sox, but she was interested in "What kind of books do you like?"

"Law books. I can't get law out of my system. A hangover from my childhood. I wanted to be a lawyer."

"Why didn't you study law?"

He fussed with his pipe. He said slowly, "It's a long story. My old man was a farmer in Idaho and things were tough when I was a kid. But some kids are romantic and they like it that way. I did. Like most boys, I had a hero. He was a poor kid, too, and I wanted to be like him, grow up like him, go through the same kind of fire he did. Not that I cared about being president, but—He broke off, looking strangely young and embarrassed."

Kit curled her legs up under a swirl of chiffon and said softly, "Lincoln! Go on, Vance."

He knocked the embers out of his pipe into the hearth. "There isn't anything to go on with. I worked until I had enough money to come east to college. When I got here I was broke, but I got plenty of jobs —waiting on table, rustling trunks. I worked for a tailor pressing clothes and tutored a lot of dim-wits. The usual things—"

"Well, you can't stop now. Come on with the rest of it."

"Then I got into football and that was the end of the honest effort. The law business blew up."

Kit said, "Why?"

"Well, there's a lot that goes into—oh, there was a lot of hokey and newspaper buildup about my gridiron talent when I made the All-Amer—when we won a lot of games—and, after I graduated, I fell into a soft spot, announcing sports for CBC. There was a lot of dough, more than I'd ever seen, and it seemed like a good way to make enough to get to law school."

"And then?"

"Then there was more and more money and then it was too late to break away. A simple story, Miss O'Reilly, a simple story. Let it point a moral to you."

Vance was going to say nothing more on the subject. He already had said more than he had said to man or girl in those eight years. H. said, "I think reading would be good for you."

Kit said, "What kind of reading?"

"History, philosophy, science. It's mighty interesting. If you haven't done any, you ought to start with something simple in history. I'll bring you over a copy of Wells' 'Outline of History.' I think you'll enjoy it."

Kit took a long breath. Vance was coming back again. For over an hour she'd been sick with the thought that he hadn't found her interesting, that she'd never seen him again unless she ran into him accidentally.

Everything was lovely.

Then she froze. Unmistakably the aroma from the kitchen could be no other than the aroma of onions. Onions cooking with the beef and spice. She closed her eyes. After she'd set the stage with all the props of the ultra in gentility—onions!

Vance had caught the scent, also. He moved his nostrils with an almost imperceptible gesture of enjoyment.

Kit said, "It's stew. Stew is Vance's piece de resistance. You haven't met her, have you?"

"No, but I'd like to."

Kit called, "Fran!"

Fran opened the door. "Yes, Kit."

"Come in and meet Mr. Healey. Vance, this is Miss Le Maze."

They said how do you do to each other, and Fran said, "Umm. I'm sorry about the garlic . . . but you know garlic."

Vance's eyes twinkled at Kit. He said, "It's one of my favorite smells. I'm surprised to find you doing the cooking. Miss Le Maze. Kit told me she loved nothing better than whipping up a cake and I thought—"

"You don't put garlic in cakes," Kit said.

"I always do," he said firmly.

"Well, if you like it, why don't you stay and have supper with us? There's plenty," Fran invited.

Kit shot a dire glance at the other girl. She hoped, later, perhaps, to ask Vance to dinner. Dinner that featured a rare soup, tender duck roasted with white grapes and orange, an exotic salad. And Fran was calmly inviting him to share a humble stew.

Vance's eyes lit up. His voice was boyish and eager. Mean it? Sure, I'd love to—if it's okay with you, Kit."

Kit thought, "What an idiot I am! I think about him as if he were a prince who would touch nothing that was not gold. And he's regular." She said, "Please stay. I'll get out of these draperies and make some biscuits."

"If we had some greens, we could have a greens and cheese salad if we had some cheese," Fran announced.

Vance was half way to the door before she finished. "I'll make the salad," he promised. "Where's the nearest grocery?"

"The way to a man's heart is through his stomach," Fran remarked sagely, if somewhat tritely, that night.

If that first invitation, and those that followed, didn't find Vance's heart, at least, the beginning of a friendship that brought him frequently to the apartment in Sutton place.

He came to bring books to Kit, to teach her to read, to know poets and philosophers. Sometimes these lessons followed the regular Sunday noon breakfast that Vance shared with them. Sometimes he'd put the book away and tell her that all work and no play would make her dull. Then he'd take the two girls to a movie.

He taught Kit the wonders of astronomy, taking her to the Planetarium where she looked more often at the shape of his head, his profile, than at the bowl of stars above them.

After the night of her party, he did not kiss her again. Between them there was a pleasant camaraderie in which Kit was happy. But not always content. But she could wait and hope—as long as Vance was in her life.

Army Captain Wins Bowman Cup for U. S. Rides Old Mare in Jumping Contest at Horse Show

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—An army captain and a young officer combined tonight to bring the United States its first Bowman Challenge Cup championship in six years of international military jumping at the National Horse Show.

Captain David Wagstaff, Jr., of Fort Myer, Va., who only recently won his captain's stripes, guided the big old mare, aptly named Enterprise, to a perfect performance over the difficult 11-jump course. He outpointed cavalry entries from Cuba, Mexico and Chile, as well as other U. S. Army jumpers and those from the New York City police department, before 10,000 spectators at Madison Square Garden.

In turning the trick—the first time the U. S. has captured the coveted trophy since Lieut. Carl Reuse did it aboard Dakota in 1934—Capt. Wagstaff and Enterprise featured the first day of the 47th annual horse show, which saw the Glenholme Farm of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Van Sinderen of Washington, Conn., and the Hawthorn Farm Stable of John P. O'Connell of Libertyville, Ill., go far out in front in the week-long race for blue ribbons.

Society folk, all dressed up in stiff shirt-fronts, evening gowns and enough jewels to make a Maharajah happy were just ordinarily cheering fans as the Fort Myer entry sailed over the last jump without a misse.

Earlier Major Eduardo Yanez of the Chilean army, had come through with two perfect rides aboard Chilena, the 1938 winner, and Toqui, the 1939 cup-winner. Captain Humberto Mariles of Mexico had turned the trick with Tizoc, his, with all deadlocked on performance basis, with no faults, the times became the deciding factor, and enterprise finished on top in 35 seconds flat.

Chilena was second, in 36 seconds; Toqui was third in 38 2-5, and Tizoc, fourth in 41. No one seemed to know much about the old mare. She was bred in England and was one of the biggest in the show, standing 17 hands, but her age was unknown.

The program only lists her as "aged."

Fraud Suspected in Chicago Election

CHICAGO, Nov. 7 (AP)—The U. S. district attorney's office today began an investigation of the stretch spurt that carried Republican Wayland Brooks to victory over the Democratic incumbent James M. Slattery in their race for a U. S. Senate seat.

District Attorney J. Albert Woll said that Slattery had requested the inquiry on the ground that Brooks' late leap into the lead indicated the possibility of irregularities in certain precincts.

Slattery told him, Woll added, that these precincts reported "quite late" and were against the trend that had kept Slattery ahead for nineteen hours after the polls closed.

Brooks, in commenting on the investigation, asserted: "It seems strange to me that the pondering Democrats should be crying about vote fraud. I can assure you that I had nothing to do with the time that the count was turned in."

Complete unofficial returns from all the state's 8,378 precincts gave Brooks 2,037,871 votes and Slattery 2,020,928—a plurality of 16,943 for Brooks.

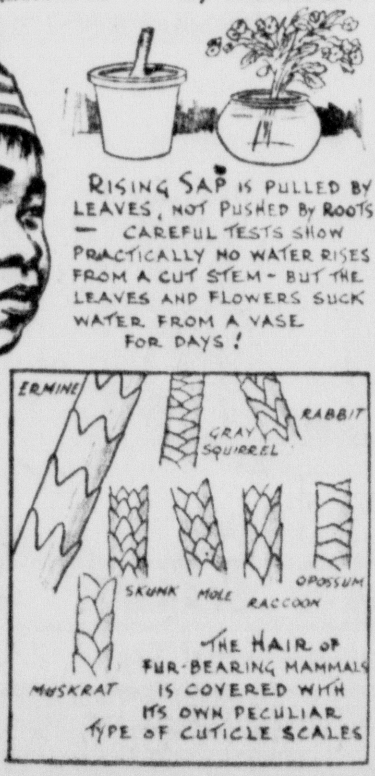

Assistant District Attorney Martin Ward, assigned to inquire into any vote fraud charges, said that about thirty-five precincts in Chicago and Cook county were under scrutiny.

Edmund Lowe Sued

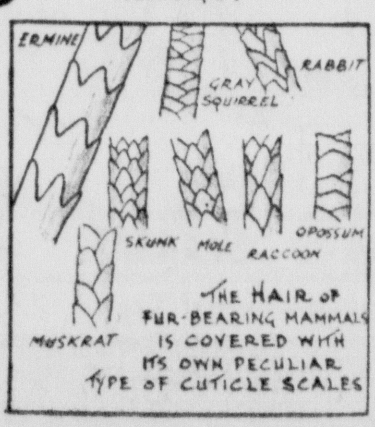

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7 (AP)—Edmund Lowe, leading man of the films, was sued for divorce today by Mrs. Rita Kauffman Lowe, who charged him with associating with other women and criticizing her without reason.

Ways Suggested To Assist the Poor Reader

Parents Can Help Child By Reading To Him In the Home Daily

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
Repeatedly in this column I have urged parents to read daily to the child from his early second year long past the time he enters school. I can think of no finer contribution to the child's pre-school and later education. It is excellent for reading readiness. How fine it is if it culminates in reading to one another in the family, even when the children are practically grown.

Parents Can Help

Yes, I know that reading experts occasionally find a poor reader in the third or fourth grade whose parents still read to him. Indeed, I have heard from a few of such parents through this column. Some years ago I studied and worked with some such cases following them through several months until they were able to make rapid reading gains. But I did not, as do most reading experts, advise the parents to quit reading to this poor reader. Continue to read aloud to him but pause occasionally to show him the word or phrase he hears you say. In the midst of a new brief story he likes find occasion to quit reading, suddenly, and don't resume too soon. Impatient, he might choose to dig it out alone.

As further help to the poor reader—

Have him dictate stories of his own to you to type and read to him. Comics which are really funny and not fearful are also good for teaching reading at home.

Urge to Read

"About the greatest possible urge to learn to read is the wish to be able to read to a younger child, especially to a baby brother or sister; therefore, about the best way to help a poor reader is to induce him to read to a baby or very young child. Naturally then he will choose to read easy materials, the very kind this poor reader ought to practice on. Have him read only from what he can read easily, even if it must be no harder than a primer.

"In case the child in the upper grades or high school has trouble preparing his home assignments in English, history, science and the like, read aloud to him these assignments from his texts and help him put each paragraph briefly into his own words. Then help him also find a few minutes each day to practice reading at materials far easier. The high school student might be induced to read aloud to himself daily from such sources as Franklin's Autobiography, Robinson Crusoe, the Bible.

I have been quoting a bit from my 'Home Helps for Poor Readers.' You may have the whole of it without cost by writing me at 235 East Forty-fifth Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Aunt Abby says

I never get put out when folks put on airs. Trying to be something is better than nothing.

Every Sunday night Pa and I pull down the shades so folks will think we've gone out. We don't like to be interrupted when we're listening to that Helen Hayes radio program. My, but she's thrillin'!

Funny how some women can get such a laugh out of another woman's hat and not get one out of a mirror.

The one thing I've never bargained for in my whole life is tea. Gosh, when even as fine a tea as LIPTON'S costs less than anything you can drink except water, why be satisfied with less?

Lipton's matchless flavor comes from a blend of choice teas—each selected for some distinctive quality. This blend includes something only Lipton gives you—noteable teas grown in Lipton's own Ceylon gardens.

NYA Applications To Be Received At Grantsville

GRANTSVILLE, Nov. 7—Doris Egan, junior interviewer for the National Youth Administration, will have a desk in the NYA room at the Farm Security agricultural exhibit here today, Friday and Saturday. Miss Egan will receive applications of Garrett county boys and girls between the ages of 17 and 25 interested in part-time work.

The desk used by Miss Egan at the exhibit, and other furniture in the NYA room in the National garage building was made by NYA boys assigned to a wood working shop at Lonaconing. The handsome colonial owner cupboard will be sent to the Allegany County Home.

E. Price Steiding, assistant NYA director, pointed out that the construction of this furniture was in line with the NYA policy of performing useful work for public agencies and that at the same time providing practical experience for youth.

A colorful quilt, made in the Arizona Star pattern by NYA girls, is attracting an unusual amount of attention. The curtains, also made by NYA labor, have been loaned by the homemaking project for girls in Lonaconing.

The exhibit also includes collections of photographs and posters describing the NYA work of this section.

According to Mr. Steiding, there are now over 675 youths in Garrett and Allegany counties. "A recent congressional appropriation for defense has made possible the expansion of our shop program. We expect to employ approximately 400 more young people during the next three months," said Mr. Steiding.

Last Rites Held For Louis Marina

Funeral for Westernport Coal Miner Conducted at St. Peter's

WESTERNPORT, Nov. 7—Funeral services for Louis Marina, a coal miner, who was stricken near his home at Reese's station Tuesday evening, were held this morning at St. Peter's Catholic church, Westernport.

A requiem high mass was said by the pastor, Monsignor A. Scarpato, with the Rev. S. J. Chylinski in the sanctuary. Interment was in St. Peter's cemetery.

Pallbearers were Charles White, Thomas White, Dominick Nesci, Joseph Giardine, James Rino, Joseph Cirillo, Leonardo Simonelli and Larey Albanese Sr.

Special Service Planned

An installation and candle-lighting service will be held at the Church of the Brethren, Main street, Westernport, Sunday evening at 7:30. The pastor's theme will be "Making Life Count."

The newly-elected officers of the Young People's department to be installed are Leo Hoff, president; Kenneth Harrison, vice-president; Pinkie Hoff, secretary; Mrs. Luther Warnick, treasurer; and Mrs. Ellis Burke, adult adviser.

Tri-Towns Briefs

Following the worship service Sunday night, First Baptist church, Main street, Westernport, will hold a baptism service.

Mrs. Lucille Krantz, chairman of the American Red Cross for Westernport and Luke, announced the annual Roll Call will be held November 11 through November 30. The quota is $350, an increase of $70 over last year. One half of all money collected remains in town and is used to meet emergencies.

Piedmont Company No. 10, Uniform Rank of the Knights of Pythias, held a reception and open house in observance of its fifty-first anniversary at the K. of P. armory last night. The Tri-Towns Municipal Band gave several selections, as did the Mozart orchestra. A moving picture was given of the American Legion Convention held in Chicago in 1939. Colonel C. A. Beck welcomed the guests. Refreshments were served.

Tri-Towns Personals

Miss Virginia Parson, Monongalia City, Pa., and Elzer Parson, Washington, D. C., are visiting relatives and friends here.

Miss Franchel Welsh, Church street, will spend the weekend in Morgantown, W. Va., and will attend the Cadet Hop at the university Friday night.

Mrs. M. C. Herbert, Maryland avenue, continues ill at her home. Mr. and Mrs. James Welsh and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Nelson returned home after visiting Miss Margaret Welsh, a student nurse at Mercy hospital, Baltimore.

America's 'Most Typical Co-ed' Ready To Become 'Apple Queen'

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 7 — The nation's "most typical co-ed," Mary Lou Bullard of Wheeling, got ready tonight for a new role as queen of the Eastern Panhandle apple-growing country and some 50,000 subjects.

The blonde West Virginia university junior and "King" Henry Miller Jr. of Paw Paw will be presented publicly to the sixth Annual Apple Harvest festival crowds tomorrow at an automobile show opening the four-day program.

Miss Bullard, selected "America's most typical co-ed" in a nationwide magazine-sponsored contest, and Miller will be crowned Saturday by Governor Holt at coronation ceremonies preceding presentation of a historical pageant.

In the royal retinue will be two maids of honor — Phyllis Kidwell and Virginia Schleuss of Martinsburg — and four princesses and princes, two from each of the four counties in the West Virginia apple belt.

The next demonstration will be given by Gale Teter and Jean Bible on "Care of the Face," Friday, November 29.

Attend Meeting

The Flintstone Homemakers Club was well represented at the annual Allegany County Homemakers Achievement day luncheon at Centre Street Methodist church yesterday.

This marked the twenty-sixth anniversary of the Allegany County Homemakers Clubs. Those present: Mrs. Agnes Roberts, Mrs. Charles Robinsonette, Mrs. H. R. Ash, Mrs. H. H. Heber, Mrs. B. C. Robinsonette, Mrs. H. V. Bender, Mrs. Willie Perrin, Misses Pearl Wilson, Ruth Perrin, Helen Gordon, Anna Beck and Alpha Pearl Bender.

The Flintstone club will hold its annual Achievement Day program Friday night in the school auditorium at 8 p. m.

The present federal law requiring all states to vote for presidential electors on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November was passed in 1848.

Open House Planned

John T. St. Clair, principal of the new Morefield high school, announced that open house would be held during the week of November 12 to 15 in observance of National Education week. The parents and patrons of the entire county school system in all schools are invited to attend their respective schools for a visit and inspection of the class rooms.

In the class rooms of the county schools, appropriate programs will be held daily in observance of the week.

Two Hurt in Crash

A serious wreck occurred late Sunday afternoon at Main and Winchester streets injuring Mrs. Ollie Reynolds, Lake Lynn, Pa., and Betty Jean Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peters, Inkerman.

Carl Peters, with six passengers in his car, ran into the car driven by Oliver Reynolds, who had five passengers. Mrs. Ollie Reynolds, mother of Reynolds, was thrown into the windshield with the impact of the crash and suffered a concussion. Betty Jean Peters, riding in the other car, was bruised. Passengers in both cars were badly shaken up.

Damage to both cars was estimated at $100, with the Reynolds car suffering most of the damage. No one was held after the accident. Town Sergeant Ted Sager investigated.

Calvin Thorn was fined $25 and costs by Justice J. Harry Dolan when he pleaded guilty to the charge of hit-and-run driving near R. W. Va. Thorn had backed into

Moorefield Lions Club To Lease 25 Acres for Municipal Airport

Members of Group To Work on Site with Borrowed SRC Machinery

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 7 — The Moorefield Lions club decided this week to promote a municipal airport for Moorefield. The site for the port will be leased in the name of the town on property belonging to Phil Inskeep and will be worked by club members interested in aviation with machinery lent by the West Virginia State Road Commission.

Nearly twenty-five acres of land are involved in the transaction. The site will meet the requirements of the Civil Aeronautics Authority for a primary airport and can be developed into a secondary airport at any time in the future.

Bob Rosen, manager of the Half Price Store in Moorefield, was admitted to membership in the club at its meeting at the Hotel McNeill.

The annual fall zone meeting of Lions clubs in this district will be held in Moorefield, Thursday, November 14. The Rev. C. E. Brandt of Romney will be the featured speaker at the informal banquet and dance on that evening. Martin Judy, Franklin, has been engaged for the music and entertainment. Clubs who will send representatives are Keyser, Romney, Franklin, Ridgeley and Piedmont.

John T. St. Clair will be chairman of the Christmas lighting committee again this year, and the lights will be put up sometime during the first week in December. The club owns several strings of lights and will sponsor lights owned by individuals. The Community Christmas tree will also be lighted by the club this year.

Corporal Homer R. Shields, chairman of the safety patrol committee for the schools, reported no patrol would be organized this year. Clyde T. Shanholzer, member of the Romney Lions club, affiliated with the Moorefield club, as his residence is now in this city.

Shower Held

LONA CONING, Nov. 7 — A miscellaneous shower was held Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Connor, Jackson street, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gormer who were recently married. Thirty guests were present. Games and music featured and refreshments were served.

GOP Loses One House Seat, Gains Senate Post in W. Va. Legislature

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 7 — The 122,000-vote Democratic victory in Tuesday's election caused the net loss of but one Republican seat in the State House of Delegates, unofficial returns showed today.

Unless there are changes because of recounts, the minority party will have twenty-one seats in the 1941 house and the Democrats seventy-three. In 1939, the division was 72-22.

Cuyler Ewing, Republican incumbent in Ohio county, won re-election. Democrats took the three other seats, including one held in 1939 by J. William Cummings, minority floor leader.

Returns showed R. Osborne, Republican, elected by thirty votes in Lincoln county. In Roane county, T. V. Foster, Democrat, won by a margin of forty-one votes. Returns were possible in both counties.

Grantsville Area Mourns Death Of Old Resident

Mrs. Harriette A. Blocher Succumbs at 95 as Result of Fall

GRANTSVILLE, Nov. 7 — Mrs. Harriette A. Blocher, one of the oldest residents of this community, died early this morning at the home of her son, John Blocher, at Jennings, whom she was visiting. She was 95.

Mrs. Blocher fell down a few steps shortly after her arrival at her son's home two months ago and had been confined to her bed for about seven weeks. Although she suffered no serious injuries in the fall, it is thought the shock, together with her advanced years, brought on complications causing her death.

She was born in the Fairview section, near here, April 11, 1845, a daughter of Amos and Sally Broadwater and had spent her entire life in Garrett county. Despite her years, Mrs. Blocher was alert and active both mentally and physically. Until the accident occurred she appeared in excellent health and spent her time visiting among her children.

She was the oldest descendant of the Cornelius Broadwater clan and took an active part in the annual reunions of this group. Last August, she was an outstanding figure at this gathering, appearing with five generations of her family; her daughter, Mrs. Sally Bowers; her granddaughter, Mrs. Silas Durst, Jennings; her great-granddaughter, Mrs. Neal Morris; and her great-great-grandson, Richard Norris, Ohio, Pa. On this occasion she also recited a poem, "The Unseen Hand," which she herself had composed.

Mrs. Blocher was the widow of Jacob Blocher, who died many years ago. They were the parents of eight children, six of whom survive. They are Mrs. Sally A. Bowers, Jennings; Mrs. Effie Ouster, Eckhart; Mrs. Enoch Robinson, Avilton; Mrs. Zephaniah Wilt, Swanton; Mrs. Louise Wilt, Westport; and John Blocher, Jennings. A number of grandchildren, great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild also survive. She was the last surviving member of her immediate family.

Mrs. Blocher united with the Methodist church at an early age and until her declining years was always a devout worker in this organization. She was widely known throughout this and neighboring communities, and news of her death comes as a shock to her many relatives and friends.

Womans Club Meets

Mrs. H. P. Miller entertained the Womens Community club yesterday afternoon at her home at Salisbury. "Dressing Your Personality" was the topic for the meeting, with roll-call being answered by "Why I Feel Well Dressed in What I Am Wearing."

Miss Ethel Broadwater presided over the session and gave a report on the Achievement Day program recently held at Deer Park. Mrs. Jonas Beachy gave the demonstration in the absence of Miss Mildred Barton, home demonstration agent. A general discussion followed.

Mrs. Menno Miller was invited as an additional guest. Among those besides Miss Broadwater and Mrs. Beachy, were Mrs. John J. Urban, Stanton, Mrs. Nevin U. Broadwater, Mrs. Ollie E. Loebel, Mrs. Ida Hershberger and Miss Cora Hachman.

Mrs. E. E. Cunningham will entertain the club at a Christmas party at next month's session. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Mission Group Meets

The Missionary Society of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church was entertained last evening by Mrs. Floyd Durst and Mrs. Sidney Setzer at Mrs. Durst's home. Mrs. Robert Speicher presided, and Mrs. Daniel W. Hershberger gave

NATIONAL P-TA HEAD

Mrs. William Kietzer (above), of Portland, Ore., was the principal speaker at yesterday's opening session of the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers. Mrs. Kietzer is president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Youth 'Allergic' To Religion, P-TA Head Finds

National President Urges America Return to Spiritual Values

FROSTBURG, Nov. 7 — Declaring that "we have reared a generation of young people that is allergic to religion," Mrs. William Kietzer, Portland, Ore., president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, said today that "America must return to the faith of its fathers."

In an address prepared for the first general session of the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers, Mrs. Kietzer outlined needs of "the child of his community."

Integrity Needed
The convention, being held at Frostburg State Teachers' college, will continue through Saturday.

"America needs educated citizens," Mrs. Kietzer said, "but even more does it need citizens of integrity and character and conscience."

"We must therefore help the church to come back into its own, remembering that a few minutes on Sunday is not enough. Spiritual values must be instilled on Monday and Tuesday as well."

Mrs. Kietzer recommended that "we give serious attention to housing programs for families of low and moderate income so that children may be removed from environmental conditions which are not conducive to their best development and do not permit America to breed a sturdy stock."

Building Family Life
"Parent-teacher associations, through the study which their program of parent education motivates, play an important role in building wholesome family life."

She said that parents should be greatly concerned about their children's activities during leisure hours, adding that many of them were being harmed by "bad movies, bad reading and harmful play."

Although parent-teacher organizations could not reorganize communities, she said, they could "stimulate community thinking which will result in an awareness of the responsibility and obligations of the community towards its children and all its citizens."

State President Absent
Because of the absence of Mrs. G. R. Clements, Annapolis, president of the congress, who is ill, Mrs. Milton D. Moore, first vice-president of the organization, presided at the opening session.

In her address, Mrs. Kietzer stressed the fact that the character of children is shaped by the behavior and conduct of older persons and declared that good results in the matter of character-building cannot be expected if children hear honesty and virtue preached from the pulpits and advocated in the homes of the community and see other methods practiced in the market places.

The integrity of all public agencies, such as police forces, municipal officials, school and church leaders, as well as ethics among business men, will have a beneficial effect on developing fine character in children, she said. If children hear adults say one thing and see them do another, Mrs. Kietzer asserted, they will be less inclined to be impressed by their advice. She urged her hearers to make a study of that world which is peculiarly the children's world, and try to adapt themselves to it and never tire in trying to lend a helping hand.

In solving the problems, simple for older folks but perplexing to the young.

The program at the morning session included singing in charge of Prof. Maurice Matteson, assisted by Mrs. Matteson at the piano; prayer by the Rev. Edgar W. Beckwith, greetings by convention officers and reports from convention committee chairmen. The resolution committee submitted ten resolutions which will later be discussed by the entire convention and released for publication following the Saturday afternoon session.

Following a luncheon at the Gunter hotel, the afternoon session opened with a procession of convention officers headed by uniformed boys carrying the national and state flags. The audience sang as the officials marched to the stage, where they were later introduced.

The feature of the afternoon session was a panel discussion on the topic "Juvenile Protection," the speakers being Dr. R. V. Seliger, mental hygiene; Officer James E. Kelley of the Cumberland police force; Boys Clubs; Thomas C. Ferguson, recreation; and Miss Adele Pratt, libraries. Members of the panel were Mrs. Grace Downin, Miss Elsie Hepp, Miss Margaret LaPar, Miss Majorie LaFollette, Arthur O. Ramey, the Rev. Father Russell, Miss Mary G. Walsh and Miss Lillian Welner.

The success of the child of normal health and mental faculties depends in large measure on the skill and intelligence employed by parents, teachers and child welfare agencies in assisting the children to develop their powers and to give sympathetic encouragement and help whenever they fail, the group emphasized.

The Parent-Teacher movement in Maryland.

The delegates were entertained this evening with a one act play, "Who Gets the Car Tonight?" by a cast from the Little Theater of State Teachers college under the direction of Miss Margaret LaPar and Miss Ruby Dahlgren. Mrs. T. W. Pyle appeared in a monologue, and the program was concluded with games and stunts.

There will be two business sessions of the convention Friday, commencing at 9:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. The twenty-fifth anniversary banquet of the congress will be held at 6:30 p. m. at the Gunter hotel. John L. Dunkle will preside, and the speakers will be Miss Elizabeth Amery and Mrs. William Kietzer.

When he steps down, President Roosevelt will have his second opportunity to appoint a federal judge in West Virginia. Judge Harry Watkins of Fairmont, who sits in specified cities in both the Northern and Southern districts, was the first Roosevelt appointee.

Both McClellin and Judge W. E. Baker of Elkins, Northern district jurist, are Republicans. Both also were appointed by President Harding, Baker being the first judge named by the Harding administration.

The Southern district, composed of twenty-four counties, has sessions of court at Charleston, Bluefield and Huntington. McClellin has held court only at Charleston, Lewisburg and Bluefield since the appointment of Watkins.

the Scripture reading. For the evening's lesson, Mrs. Bepny Epstein continued her discussion of the book, "Dangerous Opportunity," dealing with missions in China, and gave a brief resume of the fifth and sixth chapters.

This meeting was held jointly with the annual "Thank Offering" service. In this connection Mrs. A. M. Wright, wife of the pastor of the Salisbury church, made an address, and the Rev. Mr. Wright, who is also well known as a guitarist, played several selections. The thank offering boxes were to be returned at this time but only fifteen members were present. The contents of their boxes, however, netted $27 and there are a number still outstanding.

During a short business session, Mrs. Paul Kinsinger, Mrs. Floyd Durs and Mrs. C. A. Bender were appointed as a committee to nominate new officers to serve for the ensuing year, the election to take place at the meeting. The ladies are serving a banquet to members of the Farm Bureau on Wednesday, and final arrangements for this event were completed. Plans were also suggested for the annual Christmas party which will be held in the social room of the church next month, the date to be determined later. Husbands and friends are to be included in this affair. Frances Miller and Eugene Durs assisted in serving refreshments when the meeting was concluded.

Pioneers Hike Lead In Bell Club League

The Pioneers increased their lead to four games in the Bell Club Ladies' League this week by handing the runnerup Bellhops a 3-0 defeat on the SS. Peter & Paul drives.

Drama Dedicated To Peace To Be Presented Sunday

Salem Reformed Church at Frostburg To Give 'The Terrible Meek'

FROSTBURG, Nov. 7.—A radio drama, "The Terrible Meek," dedicated to peace and written by Charles Rann Kennedy, will be presented Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Salem Reformed church.

The cast of characters will include Mrs. John Hafer, a peasant woman; John J. Hafer, an army captain, and the Rev. John F. Smeltzer, a soldier. The time is a time of darkness, and the place, a wind-swept hill.

The congregation of Salem church is sponsoring this play as a public offering.

"The Terrible Meek" was written three years and a half before the beginning of the World War, during the Passion Week, 1911. Nearly a year later, in Lent, 1912, it received its premiere at the Little Theater, New York City.

On the day of production, copies of the play were sent by the author to the various monarchs and presidents, war lords, leading statesmen, judges, and other prominent men of all countries. Much fervid correspondence ensued, public and private, official and otherwise; several of the royal copies were returned; and the play was banned in London, Berlin, and St. Petersburg (now Petrograd). However, the hubbub gradually subsided, and in about six months was no more.

Then came the war. There were not so many performances during the war. But there were some.

With Armistice Day, the play began to breathe again—rapidly, increasingly. For the last fifteen years, "The Terrible Meek" has been a regular Lenten and Advent offering in churches of all denominations.

Mr. and Mrs. George McLuckie Sr. were guests of honor at a party given at their home, 26 Bowery street, last evening in celebration of their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary, the affair being arranged by members and friends from First English Baptist church.

They were married in 1912 at the Welsh Baptist church by the Rev. Lewis George, Mrs. McLuckie being the former Miss Mary Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis. They have two sons, George Jr., Frostburg, and Donald, Mt. Airy.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brain, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bean, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Minnick, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hager, Mr. and Mrs. George McLuckie Jr. and son, Michael; Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, Mrs. Mary J. Dairy and Livestock Feed Schools Scheduled in Garrett Next Week

OAKLAND, Nov. 7.—Dairy and Livestock feed schools have been scheduled again this year by County Agent John H. Carter, for the benefit of farmers raising dairy cattle or other livestock.

The schools will be held November 12, 13, 14 and 15. On the first two days the discussions will be in the Grantsville high school auditorium from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. On the last two, the discussion will be in the court house, Oakland, during the same hours.

J. A. Conover, extension dairyman, will lead the discussion on dairy; Joseph M. Vial, livestock specialist, will lead the discussion on horses and other livestock; and Albin Kuhn will discuss home grown feeds, especially improved pastures. Pasture results obtained in this county will be included.

Last year, a three-year program was inaugurated to assist farmers in securing a greater profit from home grown feeds. The program provides for meetings where latest information and experimental results can be given to the local groups and discussed as to their use on their own farms.

"The time is here when a farmer must use all information and every improved device practical on his farm to lower cost of production, thereby increasing the net return on his farm if he expects to compete with high cost living, supplies and equipment he must have to operate his farm," Mr. Carter pointed out. The meeting is open to the public, and all farmers are urged to attend.

Garrett County Maintains Stand In GOP Column

Official Returns Listed; Deer Park Man, 104, Votes for FDR

OAKLAND, Nov. 7.—The counting of official election returns in the county showed few changes from the unofficial count gathered on election night.

Garrett county maintained its stand for Republicanism and although ineffectual as far as swinging Maryland or contributing much in a national way, it showed that progress had been made in increasing Republican majorities here over the past eight years.

Garrett county gave a majority of 1582 for Wendell Wilkie over President Roosevelt, the official returns placing the figures at 4387 against 2805, and gave both Harry W. Nice and Walter P. Johnson sizeable majorities. Nice received 3,916 votes, compared to 2,746 for Radcliffe, and Johnson polled 4,027, as compared to 2,668 for his opponent, Representative Byron. Other candidates for President and United States Senator received only a smattering of votes.

Wilkie Majority High

Wilkie's majority in this county was the highest a GOP presidential nominee had received since 1920, with the exception of the year Al Smith ran against Herbert F. Hoover, when Hoover carried the county by 3,203. Roosevelt's majority over Landon in 1936 was 805; while in 1932, Garrett county gave Hoover a majority of 816 over Roosevelt. Coolidge's majority over Davis in 1924 was 1,368.

Wilkie carried every voting place in the county with the exception of four — Bloomington, Kempton, Kitzmiller and Vinex, where the labor vote was heavily pro-Roosevelt.

The oldest man in the county to exercise his right of franchise was George Marley, 104, of Deer Park. He cast his vote for Mr. Roosevelt before noon and was then brought to Oakland for a visit, his first trip here in three years.

Garrett County Maintains Stand In GOP Column

Official Returns Listed; Deer Park Man, 104, Votes for FDR

OAKLAND, Nov. 7.—The counting of official election returns in the county showed few changes from the unofficial count gathered on election night.

Garrett county maintained its stand for Republicanism and although ineffectual as far as swinging Maryland or contributing much in a national way, it showed that progress had been made in increasing Republican majorities here over the past eight years.

Garrett county gave a majority of 1582 for Wendell Wilkie over President Roosevelt, the official returns placing the figures at 4387 against 2805, and gave both Harry W. Nice and Walter P. Johnson sizeable majorities. Nice received 3,916 votes, compared to 2,746 for Radcliffe, and Johnson polled 4,027, as compared to 2,668 for his opponent, Representative Byron. Other candidates for President and United States Senator received only a smattering of votes.

Wilkie Majority High

Wilkie's majority in this county was the highest a GOP presidential nominee had received since 1920, with the exception of the year Al Smith ran against Herbert F. Hoover, when Hoover carried the county by 3,203. Roosevelt's majority over Landon in 1936 was 805; while in 1932, Garrett county gave Hoover a majority of 816 over Roosevelt. Coolidge's majority over Davis in 1924 was 1,368.

Wilkie carried every voting place in the county with the exception of four — Bloomington, Kempton, Kitzmiller and Vinex, where the labor vote was heavily pro-Roosevelt.

The oldest man in the county to exercise his right of franchise was George Marley, 104, of Deer Park. He cast his vote for Mr. Roosevelt before noon and was then brought to Oakland for a visit, his first trip here in three years.

Allegany Assembly Program Is Featured By Musical Selections

An enjoyable program was presented by the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades at the assembly program in Allegany high school yesterday morning, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Willson, supervisor of the music department.

The program included the flag salute led by Robert Rice, singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the students, accompanied by the school orchestra, the scripture reading by Rose Lee Williams, singing of "Come Thou Almighty King" by the student body, announcement of the play "Jade God" to be presented under the direction of Harold C. Wickard and a musical program by the orchestra.

The orchestra played Bizet's "Intermezzo" after which a group of girls known as "The Musettes" sang "Ay, Ay, Ay," a Creole song, and Brahms' "In Silent Night." The piano accompaniment was played by Ruth Millerson, who also played Brahms' "Lullaby" as a piano solo.

The chorus presented a group of numbers including "Lift Thine Eyes," by Logan; "Jesus Friend of Sinners," "Ezekiel," and "America." My Wonderful Land," Ella Louise Richards was accompanist for the chorus.

The program was concluded with a number by the orchestra.

C. V. Barnard Only Republican To Win In Frankfort District

The results of Tuesday's election for constables and justices of the peace in Frankfort district in West Virginia were announced last night.

C. V. Barnard, Republican, received 1104 votes, and I. E. Detrick, Democrat, polled 1045 votes to win the two constable posts. They defeated Keith Skidmore, Republican, who received 991 votes and Gerald Spangler, Democrat, who polled 938 votes.

In the race for the two justices of the peace officers C. A. Jewell with 1098 votes and Victor Grayson with 1091 votes, won out over William Klenner, who received 949 votes, and E. J. Phillips, 879.

Both winners are Democrats and the losers are Republicans.

Frankfort district comprises Port Ashby, Patterson's Creek, Wiley Ford and Ridgeley and its area.

Choirs Have Banquet And Program Here; Hollinger Speaks

The choirs of three Episcopal churches in Allegany county attended a banquet and program at the parish house of Emmanuel Episcopal church last night.

Fifty people comprising the choirs of St. John's Episcopal church, Frostburg; St. George's Episcopal church, Mt. Savage; and Emmanuel church, Cumberland, attended the banquet and heard an address by Raymond Hollinger, minister of music at the First Presbyterian church, Hagerstown.

Mr. Hollinger, widely known in this section as an authority on choral music, spoke on the subject, "Helpful Hints for Choirs."

Following his address, the members of the three organizations joined in a program of song.

The Rev. David C. Clark, pastor of Emmanuel church, was in charge of the program.

Former Local Woman Dies In Los Angeles

Mrs. Bertha W. Irwin, 68, wife of Clifton W. Irwin, died recently in Los Angeles, Calif., according to word received yesterday by friends in this city.

A native of Cumberland, Mrs. Irwin was Miss Bertha Sommerkamp prior to her marriage and was a step-daughter of the late John T. Hite, who served as city councilman here prior to the adoption of the commission form of government.

Clifton W. Irwin and Bertha Sommerkamp were the last couple married in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Baltimore street, before it was demolished forty years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin have made their home on the Pacific Coast about thirty-five years.

Brown, W. Earle Cobey and Elmer T. Pearson.

The club secretary will be named by the board of directors, and the new officers will be installed in January.

The college professor who addressed the club was Muford Stough, professor of modern European history at Dickinson college, Carlisle, Pa.

Predicts Long Struggle

In an address dealing particularly with the situation in the Mediterranean and the Balkans, Prof. Stough expressed little doubt as to Britain's eventual triumph in the war, which he foresaw as a long one.

The speaker led off with a discussion of Gibraltar, Britain's smallest possession, but one of its most important from a strategic standpoint.

The little possession, less than two miles square, will live up to its reputation as an impregnable rock, Stough predicted, ridiculing assertions it would be "pulverized" in attempts by Spain, Germany or Italy to take it.

"I'm not much worried about that possibility," he said with a smile.

Gibraltar Impregnable

Gibraltar's fortifications are buried deep in the 1,500-feet high rock, he declared, and its virtually impossible to bomb them effectively. Neither can the rock be successfully blasted from the Spanish mainland, he added.

It's true that Gibraltar's harbor can be ruined by artillery fire from Algeiras, seven miles across the bay, but even that development would not be fatal, he went on.

Even in peace-time Gibraltar was stocked with a supply of food, water and munitions sufficient to last from one to two years, Stough said, and it now has more than two years' supply—sufficient to withstand any conceivable siege by its foes.

The only land approach to the fortress is only a quarter of a mile wide, and every inch of it is covered by hundreds of guns. It is impossible to invade Gibraltar from this approach, the speaker declared emphatically.

Commands Mediterranean

Gibraltar still commands the Mediterranean, he said, and can bottle up all surface ships.

Elsewhere in the Mediterranean Italy is better off for bases than Britain, the speaker continued, but so far it has not made advantageous use of them. Britain's bases he listed as Malta, one of the great harbors of the world but too near Italian flying fields for safety; Cyprus, which lacks flying fields; Haifa, Palestine, where a pipeline from Iraq refuels British ships; and Alexandria, Egypt, one of the largest safe harbors in the world—large enough to accommodate all the navies of the world and with no rough water.

In addition, Britain may now use such Greek harbors as Corfu and Crete.

Professor Stough also stressed Britain's advantages in controlling the Suez, which he said, will eventually hurt Italy's East African campaign. Even without fortifications, battleships at either end can block it effectively, he said.

Italy is "right foolish" to presume that Germany will be of any great assistance to her, the speaker said.

No Cause for Worry

"Don't worry about the British empire falling at the hands of Germany or Italy," Stough told the Kiwanians. "It's getting stronger rather than weaker."

"As long as England controls the high seas and the Mediterranean, it's safe. There is no great threat to its naval supremacy in the Mediterranean. The Italian fleet won't threaten, and Italy's submarines have gotten the worst end of the bargain so far."

There's no real threat to British naval supremacy on the high seas, either, the speaker went on. Submarines have played some havoc with merchant shipping, but have done little or nothing against warships.

Eventually, the college professor said, the British blockade, growing in effectiveness, is going to be "tough on the Germans."

Cites German Lack of Oil

Turning to the German situation, Stough said that "lack of oil is the factor that will eventually lick the Germans."

The need for oil is the reason for the massing of troops in Rumania, the Kiwanians heard.

As to what will happen if Germany makes a thrust at the Dardanelles, the speaker stressed the importance of Russia's stand, declaring that Russia will probably fight.

Turkey will undoubtedly fight, but even with an effective army, it can't withstand German military might and Britain cannot give substantial aid, he said.

Russia Will Fight

"Russia must come to Turkey's aid," Stough asserted. "If the straits are invaded, defense of them has always been a cardinal point of Russian foreign policy."

"Russia is not going to let Germany control them, I'm pretty positive."

Even if Germany makes a deal with Russia, they must fight eventually because Russia has too much of what Germany needs.

Axis To Grow Weaker

Declaring that the longer the war lasts, the weaker Germany and Italy will become, the speaker said flatly that eventually, the axis will be "whipped." Italy has only one per cent of the necessities of war, and Germany, with only nine per cent, cannot help her fascist ally.

Conceding that Germany gets the Rumanian oil supply—which Britain may prevent for a year or so by blowing up the wells, she will still have only about a fourth of what she needs, Stough said. One-fourth of her oil and gas now is synthetic, but can't be used in

Homemakers Hold Achievement Program; Miss Kellar Speaks

The Allegany County Council of Homemakers' Clubs held their annual Achievement Day program Tuesday at Centre Street Methodist church hall.

Mrs. Arthur Phillips, Lonaconing, presided and the invocation was given by Mrs. W. A. Judy.

Reports were made by Mrs. Claude T. Jett, delegate to the University of Maryland short course; Mrs. J. J. Tipton on the fair; Mrs. R. N. Wilson on clothing; Mrs. Edward Lewis on home management; Mrs. R. W. Trevas on music and chorus directing; Mrs. Harry M. Brotemarkle on reading; Mrs. Herbert C. Heinemann on conducting a poetry quiz.

Others reporting were Mrs. Robert W. Young, president of rural women's short course and Mrs. W. L. Maddocks, president of the state's rural women's short course club.

Mrs. George Henderson gave a short talk on the Red Cross and urged the homemakers to support the Roll Call starting November 11.

Mrs. Phillips presented the guest speaker, Miss Venia Kellar, assistant director of Maryland Extension Service, who spoke on "The Home-maker and Democracy."

Mrs. Carl Goetz closed the program with "God Bless America."

Kreger Is Fined $10 and Costs for Reckless Driving

Carl D. Kreger, 26 Arch street, was fined $10 and costs yesterday in trial magistrate court on a charge of reckless driving.

Kreger was arrested early Wednesday morning after the car he was driving crashed against the bridge on Washington street, near Lee street.

Mrs. Nellie J. Fuller, 41, of 753 Maryland avenue, an occupant of the car was admitted to Allegany hospital with head lacerations. Her condition was reported "good" last night.

Two other passengers, William H. Seiler, 410 Park street, and Dorothy Fuller, were treated at a physician's office for minor cuts and bruises.

Police Lieut. James E. Van preferred the charge.

Freezing Temperatures Are Reported at Nearby Points

Below freezing temperatures were reported at three nearby West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland points late last night but in Cumberland the thermometer registered thirty-eight degrees at 11:30 o'clock.

The lowest figure was reported at Thomas, W. Va., where the mercury had dropped to twenty-two degrees. At Deal, Pa., near Meyersdale, the temperature was thirty degrees, according to readings announced by the Western Maryland railway. Big Savage mountain also reported thirty degrees a half hour before midnight.

The temperature in Cumberland dropped to thirty degrees for the third time in two months on Thursday morning, according to the thermometer at city hall. The mercury also dropped to this figure October 18 and 20.

Reporter, Lost Control of Car ed the first towers did I realize something was terribly wrong.

Bridge Starts Swaying

Either just as I reached the towers, or just as I drove past them, the bridge began to sway violently from side to side. This was something new in my experience with the bridge. Heretofore, the noticeable motion has been up and down and undulating.

Before I realized it, the tilt from side to side became so violent I lost control of the car. I jammed on the brakes and got out, only to be thrown onto my face against the curb. I tried to stand and was thrown again. Around me I could hear the concrete cracking.

I started back to the car to get the dog, but was thrown before I could reach it. The car itself began to slide from side to side of the roadway. I decided the bridge was breaking up and my only hope was to get back to shore.

On hands and knees most of the time I crawled 500 yards or more to the towers. Across the roadway from me I became aware of another man, alternately crawling and then running a few steps in a crouched position.

Fought To Reach Towers

My breath was coming in gasps, my knees were raw and bleeding, my hands bruised and swollen from gripping the concrete curb. But I was spurred by the thought that if I could reach the towers I would be safe.

Finally my breath gave out completely and I lay in the roadway, clutching the curb until I could breathe again, and then resumed my tortuous progress.

Toward the last I risked rising to my feet and running a few yards at a time. The man on the other side gained the towers before I did and I envied his better endurance.

I believe that right at this minute what appalls me most is that within a few hours I must tell my daughter that her dog is dead, when I might have saved him.

Germany Refuses

German foreign office "with the suggestion that the government of the United States would be glad to receive similar assurances" the state department said.

Germany Refuses Request

The text of the Italian reply was not made public. The German note given out by the state department, said:

"The foreign office has the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the notes of October 27 and November 1 regarding the voyage of an American ship to repatriate American citizens from an Irish port."

"On the basis of the previous statement of the German government to the effect that the areas around England are areas of military operations, the Reich government is not in a position to furnish any sort of assurance of the nature requested."

The previous statement was believed here to refer to Germany's announcement last August of a "total blockade" of Great Britain.

how very close we came to a national victory."

Another who stressed that a shift of comparatively few votes would have meant a Republican victory was Roger W. Babson, statistician, economist and prohibition party candidate for the presidency. From his home at Wellesley, Mass., he sent President Roosevelt a telegram saying:

"Heartly congratulations. A defeated statistician, however, humbly reminds you that one percent of the vote properly allocated would have elected Wendell Willkie. Therefore know you will work for coalition, both with Republicans and minority parties. Please keep well. Four great years are ahead."

Talking to reporters later, Babson explained that 500,000 more Willkie votes distributed in states where the outcome was close would have given the Republican standard bearer a victorious margin in electoral votes.

structure's two 1,000-foot approaches on either end began to give way, cracked up in small pieces and fell.

A 100-foot section was the first to drop, followed by a weird roar as the rest of the suspension cracked and fell into the water.

The entire bridge, except the two 425-foot steel towers sunk deeply below the water, collapsed.

Since its opening the bridge had been nicknamed "galloping Gertie" because of its strange weaving motion in the wind. Travellers over the span usually detected the swaying motion and some reported "sickness."

Engineer Unable To Explain Collapse

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—Leon S. Moussieff, consulting engineer and designer of the Tacoma, Wash., Narrows bridge which fell into Puget Sound today, said tonight "I'm completely at a loss to explain the collapse."

"I have no explanation, none at all," he said. "I'm unable to understand how it could have happened."

In designing the bridge, Moussieff said he and associates had followed "general scientific rules" and that their combined results were checked "thoroughly" by state engineers in Washington.

PWA Investigators Will Probe Tragedy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—John W. Carmody, Federal Works Administrator, tonight ordered PWA investigators to inquire into the cause of the Tacoma, Wash., suspension bridge collapse.

PWA officials said that the federal agency, which made $2,900,000 grant for the structure, called in "outstanding engineering consultants" when the bridge was built and that it had inspectors both on the job and at places where material for the bridge was produced.

Six Months Sentence Is Given Dawson For Stealing Watches

Six months in the Maryland House of Correction was the sentence given yesterday in trial magistrate court to a man who said he wanted to go to Florida to join Ringling Brothers Circus.

Donovan Dawson, of Piedmont, W. Va., was sentenced after he pleaded guilty to stealing three wrist watches, valued at $6.50, from the Sears, Roebuck and Company store, Baltimore street, Wednesday.

Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr. imposed the stiff jail term because of Dawson's previous record, who he said, had been sentenced to eighteen months in 1931 and twenty-two months in 1938 on burglary charges.

Officer Frank J. Shober Jr., arrested Dawson.

Late News Events as Pictured by the Cameramen

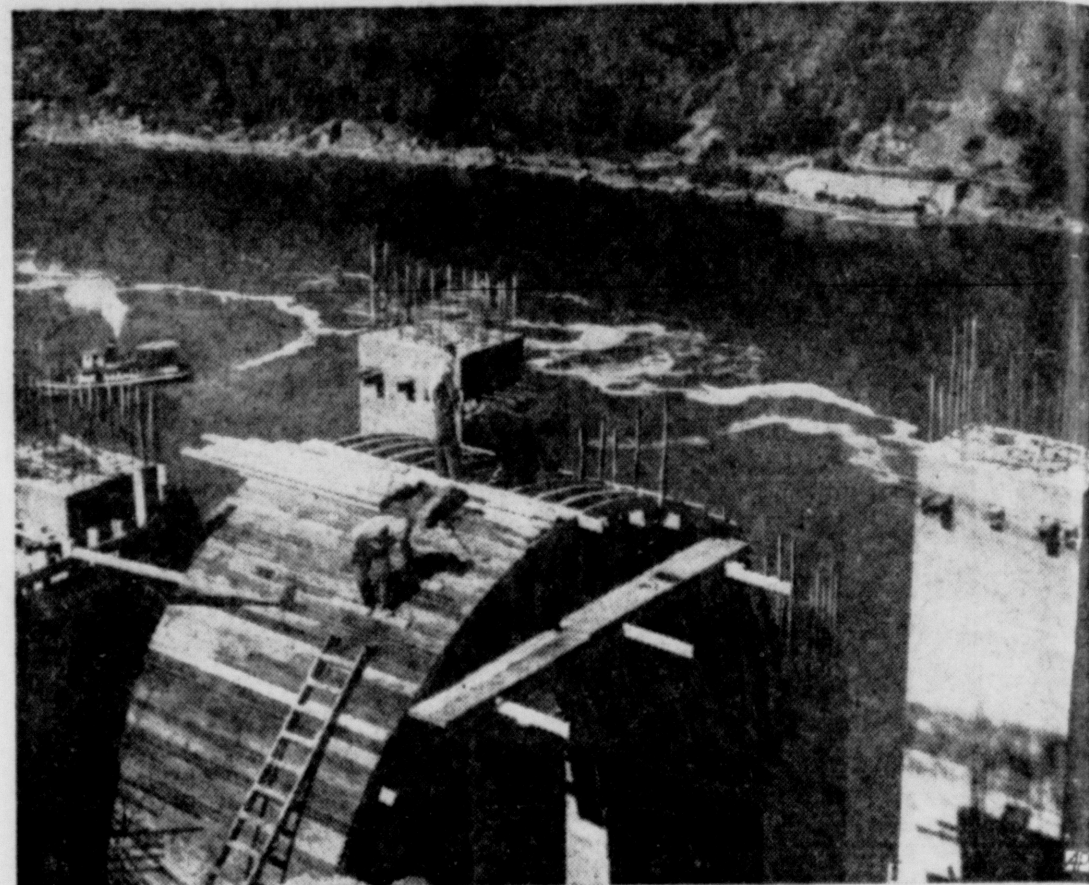

DON'T KNOW OWN STRENGTH—Because of weight, perch atop social security building in capital was denied these 31-ton Indiana limestone eagles. They're being chipped smaller.

ASSOCIATED PRESS PICTURE NEWS

YANKEE GLAMOR GIRL—Liberty's skirts had some extra flounces when American and state flags whipped in the breeze during a recent observance of "Reconsecration Day" for the Statue of Liberty. Cold weather cut attendance at ceremonies, which included music and speeches. Liberty, the gift of France to America, stands about 306 feet high, from pedestal base to torch.

BEGINNING OF A RAINBOW—Of special interest to honeymooners is progress of the Rainbow bridge at Niagara Falls, scheduled for completion in 1941 to replace the Falls View span that collapsed in 1938. Here are the first concrete arches taking form 200 feet above the famous gorge. The familiar "Maid of the Mist" steamer puffs along daintily at the left.

MODISH—Uncle Sam's winter cap for his soldiers may not rate so high among fashion-minded designers, but it's sure to keep those ears warm. This is Private Andrew Brady of the 71st infantry now stationed at Fort Dix, N. J.

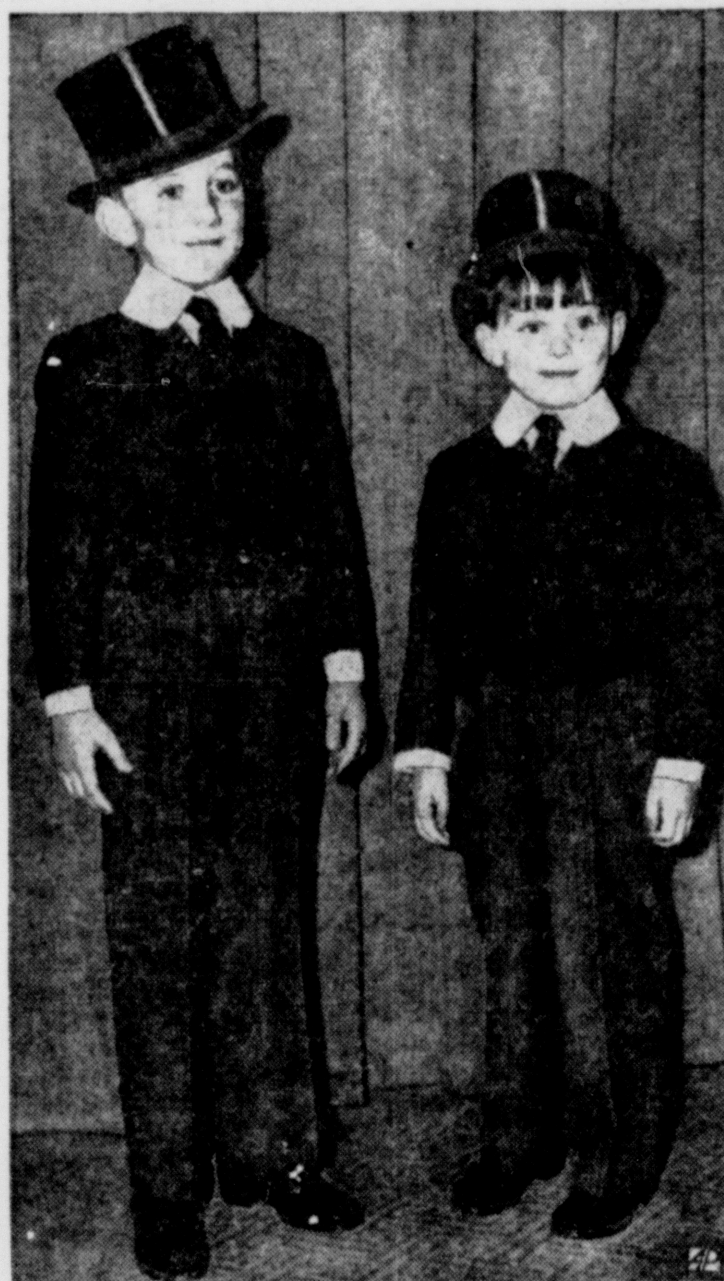

AND PUDDING, TOO?—There may not be any chopsticks around, but there's going to be rice aplenty at Crowley, La., when that town stages its annual rice festival Nov. 7, with the aid of this young rice-eating enthusiast.

JUNIOR—Youngest member of the U.S. senate is Joseph H. Ball (above), Republican and former newspaper reporter named to succeed the late Sen. Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota. Ball is 35, takes the "youngest title" from Sen. Rush Holt.

A FRIEND, THIS TIME—Over at Fort Dix, N. J., Private George Tucker of 44th division, 71st infantry, shows Private Edward Burke how sentry duty will operate. Soldiers must be clock-watchers, where those "hours" are concerned.

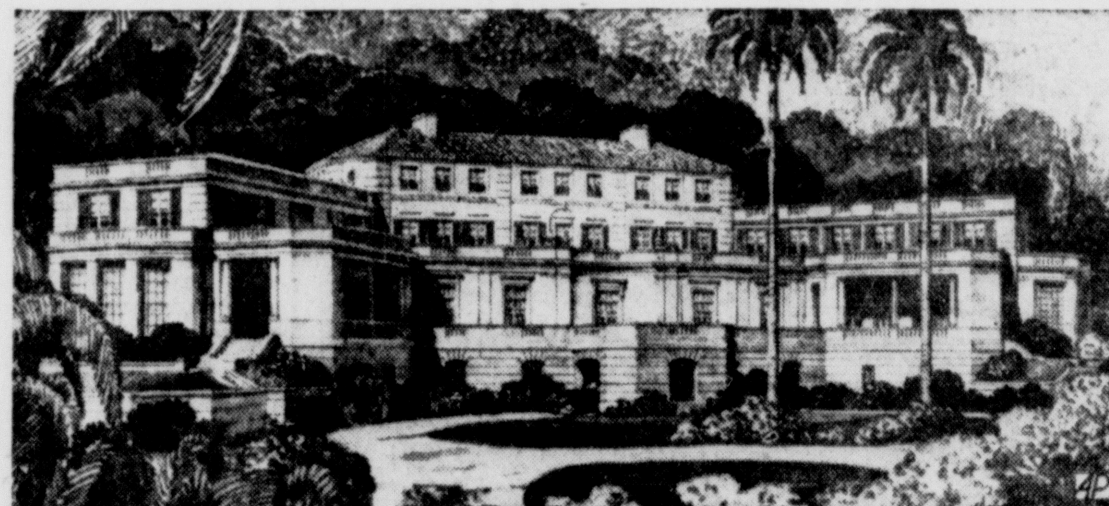

LOOKEE, BOYS!—With the snowball season coming, Junior might balk at wearing a silk top and Eton suit like these on Dicky Hill, 5, of N. Y., and Andrew Christiansen (left), 6, British war refugee. They were so attired at New York benefit.

WEST POINT—Commandant of the Presidio at San Francisco, Brig. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger has been named superintendent of West Point.

DUCK SOUP—Where Pilot Robert Ullman of Britain's R.A.F. goes, his pet duck goes, too, even if that means a stay at the swanky Ritz.

NEW U.S. EMBASSY PLANNED—In about 16 months, the new U. S. embassy in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, shown in above architect's drawing, will be ready for occupancy. It is to be on the Rua Sao Clemente. The ambassador's present residence is a rented building; the new embassy will be owned by the U.S. government and will be located on property owned by Uncle Sam.

COURSE CHECKUP—No sooner does an unidentified ship appear in American waters than the neutrality patrol swings into action. Here, at Elizabeth City, N. C., Lt. R. L. Burke (right) plots a course for Lt. C. R. Bender to follow, in locating ship.

KEEPING A LINE ON COASTLINE—Racing to his plane, Lt. C. R. Bender of neutrality patrol station at Elizabeth City, N. C., hurries to investigate an unknown ship 70 miles off shore.

PATROL PLANE AT WORK—An unidentified ship off North Carolina gets the once-over by a U. S. coast guard plane, part of the increasingly-vigilant coast guard neutrality patrol.

Stocks Advance Sharply as Public Starts Buying in Sensational Way

Some Issues Up Eight Points in Furious Wave of Trading

By FREDERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP) — The public went buying in the stock market in spectacular fashion today, raising the previous session's post-noon lows and showing the price of leaders as much as eight points higher.

The day's best quotations were reached just before the close with the ticker tape running two minutes behind transactions and the floor of the exchange a bedlam.

The recovery move got under way with the opening, then went into high gear when Secretary Morgenthau asked for an increase in the national debt limit. Transactions totaled 2,083,060 shares, making it the biggest session since last May. Yesterday's total was 1,209,320 shares.

Chief attention centered on steels as U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, and Crucible established new highs for the year, but no section of the list was neglected in the movement.

Among the day's best performers were Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas, United Aircraft, Sperry, Harsco, Case, Caterpillar, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Rubber, Eastman, Johns-Manville, Allied Chemical, du Pont, Union Carbide, Westinghouse, American Smelting, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, American Telephone, Western Union, Texas Corp., Santa Fe and Great Northern preferred.

Similar strong gains were made in the curb by Aluminum of America, Columbia Patent Fire Arms, Puget Sound Power, Jones & Laughlin Steel, Humble Oil and Lake Shore Mines. About 265,000 shares changed hands compared with 253,000 yesterday.

Companionship of Wife Is Regarded As an Essential

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage — Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

In these days of economic storm and stress, the old Biblical term "help-mate", which means a helper as well as a companion, must seem the most desirable gift in a wife.

It's an unusually far-seeing young man who recognizes this quality in a girl. Ordinarily, the high heels, the cobweb stockings, the applied Cupid's bow mouth and hair of the latest popular shade continue, as from the beginning, to exercise their usual sorceries.

Countless letters have come to this column from men who attribute their lack of success to wives who have no interest in their careers. Their husbands' professions, if professions they have, are little more to the wives than a means to writing checks.

Bored With Politics

There returned to Washington as a member of the House of Representatives, the other day, a man who had been absent for several years. He confided how glad he was to get back, and said his wife enjoyed living in Washington. But she had never been interested in keeping in touch with his constituents at home or being anything but bored with the amenities of politics, which had accounted for his defeat.

In her biography, Mrs. Roosevelt tells how pleased she was when her handsome young cousin Franklin

MARGIN OF SAFETY

IF A MINIMUM rebid of the responder's suit is treated by the side as a weakness-shower and an effort to sign off, unless the original bidder has unusual strength, then he can afford to bid five-card and six-card suits in a much weaker hand than when such a bid shows substantial values. When this is being done, however, the original caller must act gingerly and not jump at once to game in the responder's suit unless he is prepared to find his partner with an irreducible minimum. Unless his own holding is quite strong, he should raise the bid just one level in order to find out whether his partner had a near minimum or a near-maximum.

Such a bid as North's here could show a hand with any number of playing tricks from slightly over three up to six or so. South had no way of knowing whether it was in the upper or lower register. A kibitzer behind him criticized him for not bidding 4-Hearts as soon as he heard the suit mentioned, but he knew better. He knew how weak his partner's hand might be, and he provided a margin of safety by raising to only three.

If North's hand had been about half a trick stronger, he would have gone to 4-Hearts. But as it was, he held only about three and a half probable playing tricks. Unless he had about four and a plus value, his correct action was to pass.

As the cards lay, there was no earthly chance to avoid the loss of two tricks in each of the black suits. So South was vindicated.

just out of Harvard, invited her to a dance at a family party. Perhaps Mrs. Roosevelt stresses too much her shyness and awkwardness in

"How to Make Friends and Influence People."

Due to Mrs. Roosevelt

That Franklin Roosevelt as President of the United States broke more precedents than any of his predecessors is due in no small degree to his wife. From the time he was stricken with infantile paralysis, Eleanor Roosevelt labored early and late to keep him from considering himself an invalid. His mother was for accepting the blow of her son's illness, the wife fought it, in which she was ably assisted by the late Louis Howe, the presidential secretary.

In Ruby Black's book, just off the presses, she relates that when Roosevelt became Governor of New York and wanted to investigate the seamy side of his gubernatorial job, but owing to his handicap was unable to climb stairs, his wife saw things and reported them to him.

Not Always Agreed

Miss Black states: "She went to the people and she brought them to the president, both in person and through her reports on what she saw in her travels." That many of Mrs. Roosevelt's trips were taken in response to the chief executive's need for first-hand information, has long since been accepted by the press in Washington. Miss Black says that Mr. Roosevelt and his wife do not always agree on ways and means.

Whether you are pro or anti-Roosevelt and disagree and disapprove of Mrs. Roosevelt's varied and ceaseless activities, you must admit that she has not spared herself, working on housing and unemployment programs, and unceasing efforts to aid the underprivileged of all ages.

We began this article by talking about help-mates.

To my way of thinking, Mrs. Roosevelt provides the perfect definition of the word.

Butter smeared over cheese will help keep the cheese from drying.

The antennae, or "feelers," of butterflies are thread-like, with enlarged club-like ends; those of moths resemble small plumes.

The Druids regarded mistletoe as an antidote for all diseases.

The old-fashioned divining rod, for locating oil and water, has given way to electricity and dynamite in learning nature's secrets.

During prehistoric times, horned gophers lived on earth.

Fort Hill Plays Crucial Game Tomorrow

Hagerstown Can Clinch C.V.A.L. With Victory

LaSalle Plays Calvert Today--Allegany-Martinsburg Meet Saturday

The Fort Hill High Sentinels will journey to Hagerstown, Saturday, for a meeting with the league leaders, Hagerstown High gridders. If Hagerstown wins they will automatically become the C.V.A.L. champion as the game is their last league contest and they have already won three tussles.

Fort Hill emerges victorious over the Hubtown boys, and wins over Allegany on Thanksgiving Day. The game seems to be a toss-up with the game going to the team which plays the most alert ball. Both Hagerstown and Fort Hill have appeared sluggish on occasion. Hagerstown lost to Charles Town 33 to 0, which was beaten by Fort Hill. Fort Hill was held to a scoreless tie by Martinsburg which was trounced by Hagerstown 20 to 6. Hagerstown lost heavily by graduation, but appears to have plugged the gaps. The line was the worst, but the backfield has Bill Russell, quarterback and "Pinky" Tressler, captain and right halfback, to rely on and they have played fine ball this season. Fred Fahrney, left end, is another 1939 regular to aid the Hubtowners.

Fort Hill, if in fine fettle, should be plenty tough on running plays. But if they play a game such as the one last week with East Fairmont High then Hagerstown will come out on top.

The Sentinels surged all over the Fairmont team on several plays but were erratic and when scoring chances appeared they bogged down.

Allegany-Martinsburg Tomorrow

Martinsburg High comes here tomorrow afternoon to battle the not-so-tough Allegany High gridders. The Blue and White not only was heavily hit by graduation but injuries also added to the woes of Coach Herman Ball. They have not been beaten by any great margins except in the Baltimore City College game and the Charles Town tussle. Martinsburg's best game to date was its scoreless tie with Fort Hill on a muddy field.

If Allegany can muster a team at full strength on the gridiron tomorrow they stand a good chance to enter the win column in C.V.A.L. competition.

LaSalle in Baltimore

The LaSalle Explorers go to Baltimore today to meet the Calvert High boys in a game that is hard to judge because no comparison can be made due to the fact Calvert has played teams in the Baltimore sector, and LaSalle teams from around here.

The LaSalle team will stay over to see the Notre Dame-Navy game Saturday.

Phillies Place Higbe and Mulcahy on Block With $150,000 Tags

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7. (AP)—Price tags—reported to be marked $150,000 each—were hung on pitchers Kirby Higbe and Hugh Mulcahy today by President Gerald.

It is absolutely necessary that they part with one or two others to pay for the players we bought this year," Nugent said.

Higbe won 14 and lost 19 games during the past season. Mulcahy was credited with 13 victories against 22 losses.

There were reports that Brooklyn, New York and Cincinnati were interested in Higbe, while Chicago's Cubs liked Mulcahy.

In addition to the cash, Nugent asserted, the Phillies must get an experienced pitcher in exchange.

Wrigley May Quit as President of Cubs

CHICAGO, Nov. 7. (AP)—Owner Philip K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs revealed today that he was seriously considering firing himself as president of the club.

"I want to quit as president and devote more time to my other interests," Wrigley stated, "but I haven't found anyone to take over the presidency. So right now I don't know what I'll do."

He added he offered Vice President Charles (Boss) Weber the job again today, but Weber turned him down. The vice president announced several weeks ago that he was planning to retire from the club organization this winter.

Many stories and reports have been circulated on the probable resignation of the Cubs' front office, but Wrigley until today had maintained a strict silence.

Michigan Is Expected To Nose Out Minnesota

(Reprinted by North American Newspaper Alliance)

By JOHN LARDNER

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—When I was first getting started as a minster, as the sweet singer of football—when I set my foot on the ladder of the lyrical racket, so to speak—the poet Longfellow took me aside and gave me a few tips.

"For a punk, you seem to have the gift," said Waddie (we called him Waddie), "but you ought to stay out of those barber shops. Long hair is the symbol of the poet. Look at me!"

I looked at Waddie, and went right on getting haircuts. I realize that a true poet should strive for considerable longitude in his coiffure, for volume in his bangs, but there is such a thing as carrying a thing too far.

Many budding troubadours have written in to ask me how I stand on this matter of long hair for poets. I'll tell you. I believe a free verse poet should run a little longer than one of us true-blue rhymers. I generally recommend, about seven inches from the follicle to the tip for a free verse poet. Naturally, you cannot part a seven-inch head of hair, but what the blazes does a free verse man want with a part?

As for myself, I stick to the old double-breasted toupe with the notch lapels, except for evening wear, when I am partial to the more formal auburn cutaway, with part on the left. The football writers for this week? Coming right up.

The fellows call me long-shot Dan. And rightly, too. I vote a Little vote for Michigan To nose out Minnesota.

And, folks, if that one don't come through, I've got another long-shot: them There fighting sons of S. M. U. To pick Texas A. and M.

While on the coast, the haughty boast Of Stanford will abate When Washington has gone and won (I hope these guys co-operate).

And then I'll bet a fin Against eight Syracuse will win From Penn State. Right or wrong, That Penn State rhyme Is tender, strong— In fact, sublime.

You'll all agree that Notre Dame Was overrated some; But then again, the Navy's game Is just a trifle dumb. And so, as Pat remarked to Mike, The Irish are the ones I like.

Concerning Kansas, friends, I deem Her soft for Oklahoma's team. Carnegie hasn't got a bit Of course against U. of Pitt.

While as for Rutgers, neighbors, let Me recommend you Lafayette. Dartmouth needs a Churchill (Winston) To make her tough enough for Princeton.

I hate to say a thing like this About the well-known U. of Wis., But, boys, she should have stood In bed; Columbia will knock her dead.

This Southern California team Is weaker than its predecessor; It lacks the speed, the pep, the steam— Can it beat California? Yes, sir, Rice's gift to Arkansas Will be a punch upon the jaw.

Tulane will yield, at Birmingham, a Hard-fought game to Alabama. When Reagan gets his firm, prehensile Grip upon the ball, Harvard will be sun, and Pennsylvania will win, that's all.

And here the red-hot special comes To stagger you like a bursting shell; Yale will lose (you heard me, chums) To poor old broken-down Cornell.

If Gridiron Slang Puzzles You Take a Look at These Definitions

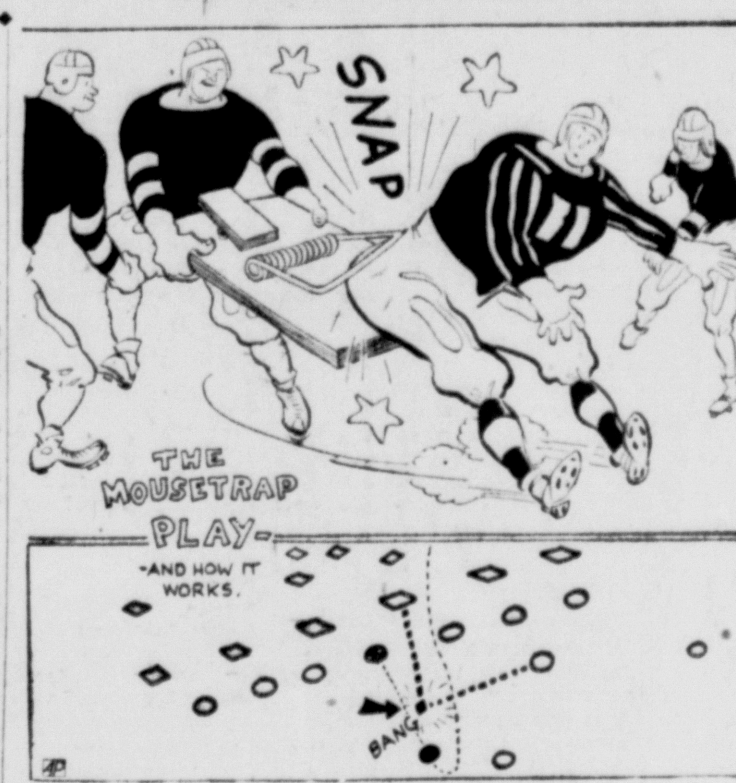

By JOCK SUTHERLAND
Brooklyn Dodgers Football Coach

Football has a number of plays that have acquired unusual but particularly appropriate names. Let's find out what a few of them are:

Mousetrap—This is a snare arranged by the offensive team. A defensive lineman is purposely allowed to charge through the offensive line. When he reaches the backfield he is blocked out of the play and the ball carrier goes over the spot he has vacated. The ambitious defensive line man thinks he has broken through and is prepared to tackle the runner or spill the interference but soon finds that he has been trapped and that the play has gone past him.

Bootlegger—This is used to describe a team that is expecting a reverse play. The opponents have seen a certain back take the ball from center, start in one direction and then give it to a runner who passes him heading the other way. The bootlegger builds up like the usual reverse but the original carrier takes as though he has given the ball to the second back, but actually slips it behind his back and onto his hip. This screens the ball from his rivals and he continues running with it while the other back faces on, bent over and with arms folded as though he had the ball.

Cherry-picker—This is a fake punt. The punter gets the ball from center, steps forward and lifts his foot as though to kick. But as he does he swings his arm around behind his back and a player who is running past grabs the ball and races around end.

Statue of Liberty—This is an old one similar to the Cherry-picker. In this case, though, it is a fake pass. The passer throws his arm back as though he was going to throw and looks downfield to spot receivers. Then a back races around behind him, takes the ball from his hand, and sweeps around end.

Sally Rand—This is a naked reverse. The interference and the supposed ball carrier streak around one end while the other back takes the ball and without interference scoots around the other flank.

Cleveland Will Probably Be Only Major Ball Club To Change Managers

Philadelphia Nationals To Resign Doc Prothro Is Belief

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (AP)—The mortality rate among baseball managers keeps shrinking and apparently the only shift in the majors for 1941 will be at Cleveland.

The new Indian pilot is expected to be named by President Alva Bradley next Tuesday. One guess is as good as another about Oscar Vitt's successor. It might be Luke Sewell or somebody the public hasn't even given a tumble.

But in any event the withdrawal of Buckey Harris from the running and the almost coincident announcement this week that Joe McCarthy would return to the helm of the New York Yankees stabilized the general outlook.

Aside from Cleveland, the only club that hasn't already signed its 1941 manager or given a verbal pledge is Philadelphia in the National League. There is a sort of tacit belief that genial Doc Prothro will be back.

Long-term contracts have helped pacify the once turbulent tide of managerial upheavals. Before the 1940 season ever opened six pilots already were secure for 1941. This includes the venerable Connie Mack, who as president of the Philadelphia Athletics is also their perpetual manager.

Cronin Secure With Long Term

Of the men who aren't fortunate enough to be able to hire themselves, Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox is in the best spot.

When he moved from Washington in 1934 Tom Yawkey gave him a five-year pact as player-manager and this was extended for another five years in 1939.

McCarthy had a three-year contract that expired at the close of last season, but Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox has a two-year agreement with a season to run.

The contract signed by Harris with the Senators this week was for one year, but the job is as long as he wants it. Next to Connie Mack, the one-time "Boy Wonder" has the longest record of consecutive managerial service in the majors at Detroit, Boston and Washington.

Pitt Scouts See Good Teams Play

Pitt scouts over the country last Saturday got themselves several eyefuls of good football. Bill Daddie watched a greatly improved Duke team wallop Georgia Tech. Dick Fullerton charted powerful State as it won with ease over South Carolina. Arnold Greene saw Nebraska outkick, outpass, and outrun Oklahoma, and Curley Stebbins, checking up for next year's opener, saw Purdue come to life to wallop Iowa.

Nick Kinsey saw Tech do everything to Cincinnati but win the game.

Bill McKechnie, gifted strategist of the Cincinnati Reds, still has a year to go on his two-year pact.

The Pittsburgh Pirates extended Frank Pritch's contract at the close of the campaign, signing him through the 1942 season. Bill Terry already was under contract to the New York Giants for 1942. Corey Stengel of the Boston Bees and Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers have been signed to one-year papers for 1941 and Billy Southworth was given his 1941 okay when he took over the St. Louis Cardinals from Ray Blades in the middle of last season.

Cornell Sets Pace as College Teams Swing to Offensive Play

Crimson Tide of Alabama Tops in Total Defense Department

By GAIL FOWLER

SEATTLE, Nov. 7. (AP)—The printers probably have a standing lead of it now.—Cornell again leads nation as gridiron ground gainer—so for a new angle we may add that Cornell also is pace-setter for a definite swing to offense as against 1939's defensive tendencies.

New figures of the American Football Statistical Bureau, compared with the bureau's 1939 records, show:

1.—That 15 teams this year have averaged 300 yards or better per game from rushing and passing, compared to only three teams with that average at this time in 1939.

2.—That 15 teams this week have gained 222.5 yards average per game running, compared to only four teams at this stage last year.

3.—And that 15 teams have gained 113.2 yards per game or better via the forward pass compared to only seven last year.

So the fans who clamored for more offensive in football are getting it.

Cornell Also Best Passers

As for the Cornells, they lead in total offense—gains both rushing and passing—for the fourth straight week, and are the nation's best forward passing unit for the fifth straight week.

The Big Red, in five games and 315 plays, has made 953 yards rushing and 1,192 passing for a total of 2,145 yards or an average of 429 yards per game—the highest mid-season average recorded by the bureau in its four year history.

Much of the statistical showing is attributed to Halfback Hal McCullough who has accounted for 805 yards, getting 141 of them on the ground and 664 in the air by completing 31 of 47 passes for a 70% completion percentage.

The Crimson Tide of Alabama—holds leadership in total defense, holding enemy passes and ground thrusts to an average of 78.5 yards per game.

Texas A. & A., the nation's 1939 defensive giant, retained first position in the defense against rushing department, holding the foe to 30.8 yards per game. Utah State's anti-aircraft kept enemy overhead attacks to 19.4 per game. Texas Mines, paced by Owen Price, kept first place for the fourth straight week as the best punting team, with 42.94 average. Price's average for 26 punts is 46.15.

Total offense—Following Cornell are Lafayette, 345.8 yards average per game; Navy, 343.3; Boston College, 335.7; Mississippi State, 332.8; Arizona, 332.2; Detroit, 331; Texas Tech, 315.6; Michigan, 314.8; Penn State, 313.2.

Rushing offense—Lafayette, 318.7; Boston College, 269.7; Michigan, 260.6; Brown, 258.8; Mississippi State, 258.

Forward passing offense—Cornell, 238.4; Texas Mines, 145.9; Marquette, 145.8; Princeton, 139; Texas, 135.2.

Total defense—Alabama, 78.6 yards per game yielded opposing ground and air offenses; Navy, 79.2; Mississippi State, 93.8; Penn State, 99.8; Boston College, 105.7; Georgia, 111; San Jose State, 117; Santa Clara, 118; Michigan, 120; Tennessee, 129.

Rushing defense—Texas A. & M., 30.8; Alabama, 37.8; Penn State, 38.8; Mississippi, 39; Arizona, 42.8; Plus defense—Utah State, 19.4; Fordham, 26.2; Navy, 31.7; Denver, 25.8; West Virginia, 39.8.

Punting—Texas Mines, 42.94; Oklahoma, 42.10; Auburn, 42.06; Holy Cross, 41.80; Kentucky, 41.70.

Notre Dame-Navy Is Sellout

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7. (AP)—Navy officials predicted today a sellout crowd of 62,000 would witness the annual Navy-Notre Dame football game in Baltimore City stadium Saturday.

The largest regiment in the academy's history—2,396 men—will come here from Annapolis in five special trains for the game.

Michigan Coaches Expect Rude Welcome

"Pal" Stuff Is All Off when They Meet Minnesota

Crisler Once Coached Gophers, Assistants Are Ex-Minnesotans

By TED PETERSON

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 7 (AP)—This "pal" stuff is all off between the Michigan coaching staff and a host of their Minnesota friends Saturday.

Under ordinary circumstances Head Coach Fritz Crisler and his assistants, Clarence Munn and Earl Martineau, might be in for a warm welcome, but not Saturday. That's the day that trio is bringing a football team to Memorial Stadium, to ruin the Gophers if it can.

The game between two great undefeated football teams is the top gridiron duel in the nation, and in keeping with that a record breaking crowd that may approach close to 64,000 will be on hand. A sellout sign was hung out at the university Wednesday.

Crisler was once a popular head coach at Minnesota; Martineau was one of the school's greatest half-backs, and Munn was one of the most powerful linemen ever developed at a school noted for bruising forward walls.

They've been many triple threat backs in Minnesota's history, but Munn was the first "triple threat guard." Captain of the Minnesota team in 1931 and All-America that year also Munn was used as a punter, ball carrier, and even did some passing to fill an all-around role.

Martineau's exploits on the gridiron which won him All-America honors in 1923 are legendary at Minnesota. His name ranks on a par or above such Gopher heroes as Bronko Nagurski, Herb Josting, Pug Lund, and many others.

As for Crisler, he guided the teams of 1920 and 1921 before leaving that position to go to Princeton, and eventually to Michigan. His team of 1930 won three, lost four and tied one and in 1931 seven of ten games wound up in the victory column.

Meantime football is the hot topic of discussion in Minneapolis pending the duel between two evenly matched teams, each of which has a powerful line and fast backs.

Michigan's scoring hopes rest mainly with the great Tom Harmon, while Minnesota expects to match his tremendous ability with George Franck and Bruce Smith, both speedy hard hitting halfbacks.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 7 (AP)—The extra point in football seems to be a unit to stay despite annual rumblings that it is unfair to stake the outcome of a game on one set play with one man's ability to kick ballbuses the deciding factor.

And in view of the perennial nature of the extra point it is surprising that so many schools consider it such a minor factor in their football curriculum, apparently figuring there is no use worrying about the extra point when there is the little preceding matter of touchdowns.

The Northwestern - Minnesota game provided a striking example of the weakness of college teams in this after-touchdown activity, as when teams of the caliber of those who can convert only once in four attempts. It means the goal posts are just something for the freshmen to rip up.

Northwestern has good company in this pointless argument. Other teams losing games this fall through failure to plant the ball in the right place include Mississippi, Auburn, Baylor, California, Harvard, Santa Clara and North Carolina.

It is an odd commentary on the judgment of the fans that when a team loses a game by failure to convert, it immediately drops several notches in the ratings, although in every other phase of the game it is equal to its opponent.

A one-point defeat is a defeat, that's all there is to it, and a defeated team is a defeated team, and that's all there is to that.

On the other hand, there is little satisfaction in a tie, and the extra point provides a decision, which is a life-saver for the citizens who like to put their two-bits on those five or seven or ten-team parlay cards which rule that a tie counts as a defeat.

That extra-point artists can be trained has been proved. The pros have athletes who can kick goals with their eyes shut. Oklahoma had a young fellow a year or two ago named Boudreau who ran up an impressive string of conversions.

It's a little tougher to get the ball over there when an opposing line is coming through like nobody's business than it is in practice.

It's likewise true that the present method of trying for the extra point is much fairer than the old method, when the scored-upon team would line up along the goal line without a chance in the world of blocking the kick of a man standing unopposed about fifteen yards out. All the defenders could do was to yell like idiots and wave their arms frantically.

Today there at least is the element of contest in the extra point play, and if a team can succeed in

Michigan-Minnesota, Stanford-Washington Clashes Top Grid Show

Topped by the all-important Western Conference clash between Michigan and Minnesota at Minneapolis and the Pacific Coast duel between Stanford and Washington at Palo Alto, Cal., the week's football card is the most attractive yet this season. The Wolverine-Gopher meeting should decide the loop race. The Stanford-Washington battle may mean the Rose Bowl for the winner. Other

Kracum May Not Be Able To Play Against Tech

Pitt Fullback Suffering from Injury Received in Fordham Game

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 7.—With the possibility of facing their traditional rival without the services of George Kracum, powerhouse fullback, Pitt is far from confident as it moves into the Carnegie Tech game this Saturday.

The big fullback injured his shoulder against Fordham, and Monday had his first rough work. The results weren't too satisfactory and the chances are in favor of him being on the bench for the kickoff against the Tartans.

In his place will be either Johnny Ross, a hard hitting junior from Ellsworth, Pa., or Joe Connell, another junior and a letterman, from Charleston. Ross lacks the experience but he hits hard and may get the call.

Despite Tech's record for the season the Tartans are feared and just so, for the Pitt coaches know that the history of the series over the past few years shows that the favorite has seldom won without a terrific struggle and more often comes up on the losing side.

The game is a key one for the Panthers. A win would put them in the right frame of mind to go against three mighty foes, Nebraska, Penn State, and Duke. A loss could do some heavy damage to the morale.

No other lineup changes except for the possible move at fullback are expected. The coaches have not been satisfied with the manner in which the players are getting back into the swing after their long lay-off, but they hope to have the squeaky parts of the machine oiled by late in the week.

The Pitt Jayvee squad is scheduled for its second game of the season this week. The Panthers reserves will leave on Friday for State College, where they are to play the Penn State Jayvees on Saturday afternoon. Both the Pitt and State Jayvees have lost to the Navy "B" squad in their round robin series.

THE UNBREAKABLES

These are the worth of the world—the pride of the race. These who have taken their blasters—blown from the track. These who have faltered and fallen—wrecked by the pace. These who have come to their feet and have dared to storm back.

All the Unbreakables—struck by the hammers of Fate—Battered and flung to the dust, dizzy and dazed from the start—Wiping the blood from their mouths, seeking the road to the gate. Open only to seekers who carry red blood in the heart.

What can we learn from the winners? Give me the ones in defeat, Who come from the blood and the roses, ready to make it a fight. Those who can come up swinging—those who are ready to meet What fate—not what men have to offer—in the battle of heart and of might.

The Rougher Going

There are a number of soft touches on this week's list, but there are also a number of thorns in Saturday's rose garden of football when it comes to correct nominations.

The tougher ones include Michigan and Minnesota, Stanford and Washington, Tulane and Alabama, Texas A. and M. and S.M.U., Notre Dame and Navy, Fordham and Purdue, Columbia and Wisconsin, Georgia Tech and Kentucky, Auburn and Clemson. These are games that can ride either way with the breaks.

The softer spots should include Penn-Harvard, Cornell-Yale, Princeton-Dartmouth, Pittsburgh-Carnegie Tech, to mention only a few. Not to forget the Notre Dame-Army party was supposed to be the softest spot of all.

One high light will be the Big Nine invasion of New York by Purdue and Wisconsin which will take on Fordham and Columbia. With Navy and Notre Dame they make Saturday a lousy intersectional East-West day.

The South is packed with trouble—Clemson-Auburn, Alabama-Tulane, and Georgia Tech-Kentucky heading the list. The first two games mentioned are full of snarls and tangles on the 50-50 side.

The Roundup

Michigan-Minnesota at Minneapolis—The most decisive game yet played for the Big Nine toga. Two of the best, Minnesota, playing at home, looks to have the better line and better reserve power. Harmon will be something to stop. So will Frank and Smith. The edge to Minnesota. But only the edge.

Notre Dame-Navy at Baltimore—Well all know more about Notre Dame after this contest. Navy is one of the best—a first class test. Just how good is Notre Dame? The Army game shattered a flock of illusions. Was just an off-day for Notre Dame, in spite of Army's magnificent fight? One more chance for Notre Dame with superior forces.

Stanford-Washington at Palo Alto—The fragrant odor of the Rose Bowl envelopes this one. The Pacific Coast standouts. Two good lines, two exceptionally good backfields. Standley vs. McAdams. Close to a tossup but the tip to Washington.

Texas A. and M.-S.M.U. at Dallas—One of the tops. Winner should take over the Southwest title: Texas A. and M. has Kimbrough, Thomason and Robnett—three standouts. S.M.U. has Preston Johnson.

Rutgers-Lafayette at New Brunswick—Another hard one. Lafayette, Rice-Arkansas at Fayetteville—A game for the breakage again. Rice, Wake Forest-North Carolina State at Raleigh—Well matched—a tough guess. Rates a draw.

I like Nebraska, a first-ranker over Iowa; Michigan State over Indiana; Duke over Davidson; Oklahoma over Kansas; Manhattan over Marquette; St. Mary's over Duquesne (Sunday); South Carolina over Kansas State; California over Southern California; Tennessee over Southwestern; Texas over Baylor (another tough one); Mississippi State over L.S.U.; Mississippi over Holy Cross; Pittsburgh over Carnegie Tech; Vanderbilt over Sewanee.

Missouri over Colorado; Utah over Wyoming; Colorado State over Utah State; Denver over Brigham Young.

Princeton-Dartmouth at Princeton—The Tiger should start moving again with Allerdice whipping that ball.

Alabama-Tulane at Birmingham—One of the tougher picks. Both have begun to roll, and both are good. Tulane.

Clemson-Auburn at Auburn—Another tossup. Auburn, "loveliest village of the plains," playing at home will be hard to take. Both have unusual backfield strength. Clemson in a close one.

Columbia-Wisconsin at New York—Lou Little vs. Harry Stuhldreher with two well-matched teams. A game to be decided by the breaks Wisconsin.

Fordham-Purdue at New York—Purdue has a good backfield. Fordham has a better one. Fordham, Cornell-Yale at New Haven—Yale will attempt an Army revival. Not much chance. Cornell remains the fastest and the smartest team in the country. Cornell.

Pennsylvania-Harvard at Philadelphia—Pennsylvania has entirely too much both ways—offense and defense.

Georgia Tech at Jacksonville—Florida made a stout showing against Tennessee, but Georgia's sophomores are beginning to learn. Georgia.

Georgia Tech-Kentucky at Louisville—Injuries have almost wrecked Georgia Tech this fall. This was shown in the last Duke game. Kentucky.

Georgetown and Boston College are both too strong for Maryland and Boston University. The first two are among the country's best.

Villanova-Temple at Philadelphia—One of the day's best in the way of action. Both are good. The edge to Temple.

Army-Brown at West Point—Army.

Penn State-Syracuse at Syracuse—Unbeaten Penn State should take it.

Rutgers-Lafayette at New Brunswick—Another hard one. Lafayette, Rice-Arkansas at Fayetteville—A game for the breakage again. Rice, Wake Forest-North Carolina State at Raleigh—Well matched—a tough guess. Rates a draw.

I like Nebraska, a first-ranker over Iowa; Michigan State over Indiana; Duke over Davidson; Oklahoma over Kansas; Manhattan over Marquette; St. Mary's over Duquesne (Sunday); South Carolina over Kansas State; California

Cumberland Poor To Eat Venison, Minke Reports

Will Distribute 100 Pounds of Deer Meat; 72 Turkeys Killed

One hundred pounds of venison will be turned over to the Associated Charities tomorrow for distribution among the poor of Cumberland, it was announced last evening by Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

The deer meat comes from Garrett county where two bucks were killed in recent days, one by an automobile and the other by a hunter whose identity is unknown. The deer that was run down by a car was bled and properly dressed by Raymond Martin, of near Red House, Minke said.

While the killing of deer by hunters is a violation during the closed season, Minke declared that Garrett county game officers were unable to learn who shot the animal.

The two deer will dress at about 126 pounds and the distribution of the venison to charitable institutions is routine.

Eleven Law Violations

Minke said that there have been eleven game law violations reported in Oakland since the opening of the season, November 1, an indication that the wardens are doing their utmost in seeing that the law is enforced.

Deer are plentiful in Garrett county, Minke said, judging from the complaints of farmers, about twenty of whom have complained to game officials of the crop damage done by the animals. In fact more complaints have been received from farmers this year than in recent years, the regional warden declared.

The deer season opens Monday, December 2, in both Allegany and Garrett counties and is limited to five days.

Seventy-two turkeys have been killed in Allegany county since the start of the season, according to reports turned over to Minke by hunters but he is certain that many more have been bagged but not reported.

He said that squirrels seem to be plentiful in Allegany county but there is a scarcity of rabbits and grouse.

Bag Three Pheasants

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the current season is the report that three hunters have bagged Mongolian pheasants in this county in recent days. These pretty imported birds are considered rare because three years have elapsed since they were planted in Allegany county.

While the number of resident hunting licenses purchased in the county have fallen below the number issued last year, Minke reported that approximately 1,000 state-wide tags had been sold. This figure is thought to be a new record here.

No serious accidents have been reported for the first week of the season and Minke hopes that hunters will continue to use precaution for the remainder of the month. The regular hunting season will be concluded November 30.

Fort Hill Plans Visitors' Night

Speaking and Musical Program Will Feature National Education Week

In recognition of "National Education Week," November 10-16, Fort Hill High school will hold "visitors' night" Tuesday, November 12. A music and speaking program has been arranged. According to Victor D. Heisey, principal, parents may interview teachers in their homerooms from 7:45 to 8:15 and discuss problems relating to the learning and school progress of their children.

At 8:15 all visitors and teachers will assemble in the auditorium to hear an address by Lewyn Davis, vice-principal of Allegany high school on the subject, "Education for Defense."

The English department has sent notices to the homes of all students who attend Fort Hill.

Music will be furnished by the A Cappella choir and the band under the direction of Miss Dorothy Seebie and Milton Holtz, respectively.

The program will include: "Washington Post March," Sousa; "Teamwork," Ribble; "Band Boys," Chenette; "Nifty," Loos; "Military Escort," Bennett.

Address by Lewyn Davis, subject "Education for Defense."

A Cappella choir: "Stars of the Summer Night" and "I dream of Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair."

Mrs. William Newberry's Condition Is Critical

Mrs. William D. Newberry, of 5 Mount Vernon place, who fell about fifteen feet, Tuesday, when a porch railing gave way, is in a "critical" condition at Memorial hospital, according to attaches.

Besides a six-inch laceration of the scalp an examination disclosed an injury of the spine which paralyzed her from the chest down.

Mrs. Newberry also is thought to have internal injuries. An X-ray has been taken of the scalp wound to determine its seriousness.

Mrs. Newberry's husband is chief engineer at the hospital.

Election Expenses May Reach $24,000

Cost of Conducting Tuesday's Election Is Estimated at $15,000

The election machinery of Allegany county will cost the taxpayers approximately $24,000 for 1940. It was announced yesterday at the office of the county commissioners.

The election judges were paid off yesterday and the clerks will be paid today.

The bill for conducting Tuesday's election, three days for registration, one day for qualifying and one day to return the books amounted to approximately $15,000. Walter Johnston, county auditor, said.

The primary last spring cost approximately $9,000.

When the levy was drawn up the commissioners appropriated the sum of $24,000 to cover all election expenses. Thus the estimate and the ultimate cost came out exactly right.

It required 430 election workers to handle the election in the county's seventy-five precincts.

Registered Men Can Enlist in American Navy

Present Program Will Require 500,000 Men, Secretary Knox Says

Men who are registered under the Selective Service act can enlist in the United States Navy if they desire, Secretary of the Navy Knox announced yesterday.

Knox in a statement said the two-ocean program of the Navy will require 500,000 men. Due to an increased number of questions on the matter Knox issued a statement for the guidance of men of draft age who want to enlist in the Navy.

Need Desirable Men

"Men who have registered for selective service are not barred from enlisting in the Navy and Marine Corps," Knox said. "As a matter of fact, those who apply for enlistment and are qualified as 'desirable applicants' will be put on a waiting list, and the local Selective Service boards will be informed of their names."

"Any man who is thus qualified and who is called by a Selective Service Board for induction into the armed forces, will notify the officer-in-charge of the recruiting station at which he applied for enlistment. Recruiting officers are authorized to enlist these qualified applicants immediately."

"Men who have registered for Selective Service and who have been actually called for service, may still apply for enlistment in the Navy or Marine Corps any time up to their induction into the service. If found qualified, they will be enlisted in the Navy, and their names removed from the Selective Service list."

"Two-Ocean" Navy

"The Navy at the present time has over 170,000 enlisted men, and the Marine Corps 37,000, their combined needs for the so-called 'two-ocean' Navy in 1945 or 1946 will be over 500,000 men. Hence, those young men who enlist now or in the near future will not only receive highly specialized training in various fields, but are the ones most likely to obtain the greatest degree of advancement during the period of expansion. Trained personnel will be required to man the many ships now under construction and being acquired. The patriotic young American citizens who today volunteer for enlistment will become the leading petty officers in that expanded Navy. Those who are seamen today will become the chief petty officers of tomorrow, if by hard work and constant application to duty, they demonstrate their fitness for advancement."

Three Sets of Brothers Enlist in Army

Three sets of brothers have enlisted in the army in the last two days according to Sgt. Clarence Biehn, local recruiter.

Three brothers who signed up are Emory G. William and Ralph L. Duckworth, sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Duckworth, Frostburg. Ralph had served one enlistment in the army.

Charles E. Bratt Jr. and Harold D. Bratt, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bratt, 304 Pennsylvania avenue, enlisted for service at Langley Field, Va. Both are former Fort High school athletes and played football and basketball.

A set of twins from Elkins, W. Va., Clyde R. and Clay Stalnaker, re-enlisted yesterday after having served one hitch in Hawaii. Their cousin George Stalnaker, of Elkins, also enlisted. They chose Panama as place of service.

William G. Schellhaus Visits Relatives Here

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Schellhaus, of West Newton, Mass., arrived here yesterday to visit the former's brother and sister, John P. Schellhaus, Mrs. James M. Conway, Mrs. Louis Lippold and Miss Anna Schellhaus, who is a patient at the Allegheny hospital.

Mr. Schellhaus, a native of Cumberland, is a retired government employee, having served as assistant lock master at Gatun Locks, Panama Canal, for twenty-eight years.

SCENE IN PLAY—The above scene is from the drama "Prisoner at the Bar" which will be presented tonight at 8 o'clock at the Centre street Methodist church here. The play is being sponsored by the Methodist churches of Cumberland and nearby towns.

"The Prisoner at the Bar" Will Be Presented by Ministers Tonight

Temperance Play Will Be Given at Centre Street Methodist Church

A play of a condemned man for justice will be delivered by George Young Hammond of Hollywood California, when he appears in his true life court drama, "Prisoner at the Bar," at the Cumberland Centre Street Methodist church tonight at 8 o'clock. The drama is presented by the Methodist churches of Cumberland and near-by towns.

The trial deals with a man, Ralph Jones, who is charged with the murder of his wife while under the influence of liquor. The state charges that the crime was committed in the presence of the defendant's little six year old daughter, who is called to testify against him. The defendant charging others in the court room with the murder—the battle between the opposing attorneys over the use of the child as a witness—the commotion in court when the defendant makes a break to stop his little daughter from testifying. These are some of the gripping scenes in this powerful drama from real life.

The Methodist Board of Temperance has secured the personal appearance of the author, George Young Hammond of Hollywood, for the production of this drama throughout the county.

Supporting Hammond, who will appear in the title role as "Prisoner," will be the following cast of local citizens: Judge—Rev. Harry E. Church; prosecuting attorney—the Rev. George E. Baughman; defense attorney—Carl Amtower; prisoner's little daughter—Dorothy Jones; sheriff—the Rev. Vernon N. Ridgely; Finger Print Expert Police Dept.—the Rev. R. H. Parker; court clerk—Harry Simpson; star witness—Mrs. A. E. Kesacker; court bailiff—the Rev. S. E. Neel.

Those summoned on the jury are the Rev. H. A. Kester, the Rev. Willard White, the Rev. Arthur H. Robinson, the Rev. T. Dixon, the Rev. L. Wittig, Caleb White, the Rev. Frank Hartman, J. Paul Shroyer, the Rev. Joseph J. Tubbs, the Rev. Kenneth Plummer, the Rev. Edward Porter, and the Rev. T. W. Kemp.

The Methodist Board of Temperance is presenting this modern drama of liquor without admission charge, as part of its nation-wide program of education. An offering will be taken.

Five-Year-Old Boy Is Burned

Edward Athey Is Hurt When Gas Tank on Old Truck Explodes

Edward Athey, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard O. Athey, 418 Springdale street, was painfully burned yesterday afternoon when the gasoline tank of a truck exploded after he lighted a match.

Young Athey was taken to Allegheny hospital with second degree burns about the face. He was able to return home after receiving treatment.

His father said some one apparently gave him matches while he was playing around the "off-and-on" used truck near home. No tires were on the machine when the explosion occurred.

South End firemen were called to the scene of the explosion, but the blaze was out when they arrived. Both sides of the tank were blown off, they reported.

Three Local Men Released under Bond

Three Cumberlanders were released under $300 bond each to await action of the January grand jury when arraigned yesterday in trial magistrates court on a charge of larceny.

Charles William Miller, William Francis Miller and Robert Cunningham are accused of stealing angle bars, valued at $62.77, from the property of the Western Maryland Railway Company.

County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle preferred the charge.

Dr. Hubert Hurt To Address Scout Council Meeting

Four Committees Selected for Annual Dinner January 25

Dr. Hubert W. Hurt, of New York, national official of the Boy Scouts of America, will be the guest speaker at the annual Potomac Council meeting and Scoutmasters' appreciation dinner, scheduled for January 25, it was announced yesterday by Raymond C. Lator, scout executive. The time and place for the affair will be announced later.

Dr. Hurt is national director of the Boy Scouts' reading program. He has edited scouting literature and has played a prominent part in the development of cubbing.

The general program committee for the meeting and dinner comprises E. E. Church, Keyser; the Rev. W. Joyce Russell, Cumberland; Dr. A. E. Krouse, Romney, W. Va., and Julian Patrick, Piedmont.

Sub-committees named are Miles G. Thompson, Cumberland, chairman, and the Rev. W. Joyce Russell, arrangements; Henry Price, Cumberland, chairman, William L. Goppert and the Rev. W. A. Eisenberger, Cumberland; Rudolph Nickel and Ralph Race, Frostburg; Joseph Hodgson and Selby Jacobs, Keyser; William Michael, Romney; C. M. Bennett, Moorefield, and John DeVore, Westernport, tickets, attendance and registration; Lloyd F. Keller, Cumberland, decorations.

An invitation to the dinner has been forwarded to the Keyser Legionettes, nationally famous women's quartet, four times winner at national American Legion conventions.

Julian Patrick is arranging an "Inspirational Patriotic Tableau" which will be the concluding number on the program.

City Is Seeking Canal Bed To Use As Boulevard

If Successful, Traffic Congestion Will Be Relieved

The transformation of the canal bed into a boulevard to create a new route to South Cumberland may be the first move of the mayor and city council in relieving the city's traffic problem.

A move is now underway to secure title to the canal bed and the Community park grounds from the United States Department of the Interior, Mayor Harry Irvine said yesterday.

City officials, working with the chamber of commerce, have already inquired into the matter and have sent letters to the interior department and Rep. William D. Byron. The Cumberland officials and business men hope to arrange a conference in Washington to discuss the matter.

If constructed, the canal bed boulevard would extend Canal street to connect with River avenue, the mayor said. This would create a boulevard route to South Cumberland.

Eventually, if the proposed airport is constructed, the canal bed boulevard could be extended to the Wiley Ford site.

City officials are of the belief that the extension of Canal street to the Wiley Ford bridge section with an outlet to Wineow street at the subway would make an excellent route for those going to the South End from the West Side.

Mayor Irvine is of the opinion that the canal bed can be filled by dredging the Potomac river below the dam, the operation serving to speed up the flow of water.

If the Community park land is secured it would be developed into a recreation center.

Woman Is Injured While Hunting

Mrs. Jane Willison, of Route 2, Cumberland, suffered a lacerated right cheek yesterday when a shotgun kicked back while she was hunting with a party of friends.

The injury was dressed at Memorial hospital.

Kiwanis Elects Weiss President, Hears Britain Will Win the War

The Cumberland Kiwanis club yesterday elected new officers and heard a college history professor assert confidently that the Axis powers will be "groggy" within a year and will eventually lose the war.

Harvey H. Weiss was elected president to succeed William M. Somerville; Fred G. Dodge was named vice-president to succeed Weiss; and Lloyd Rawlings was re-elected treasurer. Three men nominated last week to fill three vacancies on the board of directors were formally elected. They were Forrest

Local Woman Dies In Washington, D.C.

Illness Is Fatal to Mrs. Bertha Goodrich of 214 Glenn Street

Mrs. Bertha Goodrich, 67, wife of Leroy Goodrich, 214 Glenn street, died Wednesday night in a Washington hospital.

She was a native of Mt. Savage and a daughter of the late Stephen and Elizabeth Woods Porter.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two sons, Stanley and Frank Goodrich, of Cumberland; five daughters, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. Charles Swain, Mrs. Clyde Payne and Mrs. Virgil Nickels, all of this city, and Mrs. Ernest Norris, of Mt. Savage; three brothers, Lewis Porter, of Glassport, Pa.; Douglas Porter, of Ellerslie, and Albert Porter, of Kentucky; and three sisters, Mrs. Viola Williams, of Baltimore; Mrs. Emma Reynolds, of Mt. Savage, and Mrs. Nettie Little, of Orange, N. J.

The body arrived in Cumberland yesterday and was taken to the home.

Mrs. Franze Succumbs

Mrs. Catherine Franze, 43, wife of Domenico Franze, 117 Oak street, died yesterday morning at Allegheny hospital where she was admitted Oct. 28.

Mrs. Franze was born in Italy. Surviving, in addition to her husband, are two sons, Frank and Ernest Franze; three daughters, Nancy, Alva and Mary Frances Franze; and two sisters, Mrs. Grace Calveto and Mrs. Mary Pannone, all of Cumberland.

Norma Rider Dies

Norma Rider, four-months-old daughter of John S. and M. LaVerne Rider, 609 Hill Top Drive, died last night at Memorial hospital, shortly after being admitted.

The body was taken to Stein's funeral home.

Elks' Ritualistic Team Will Enter Contest In Philadelphia

Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B. P. O. Elks, at a meeting Wednesday evening, approved the participation of the local lodge's ritualistic team in the national convention contest at Philadelphia in July 1941.

The local team won district honors in August at the annual convention of the Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia Elks' Association in Annapolis by defeating Washington, finalist in the central section, and Salisbury, of the eastern shore. Cumberland lodge won western sectional honors by defeating Hagerstown.

Cumberland's participation will mark the first time that the district will be represented in the national ritualistic competition.

The district championship trophy, presented to the Cumberland team last week by the state association, and the E. Lester Mobley trophy, which was received at Annapolis, are now on display in the window of Schwarzenbach and Son, Baltimore street. The state association trophy must be won three times to become a permanent possession.

Gateway Chatter

No doubt most Cumberland citizens as well as others in the nation are glad the election is over and probably in a day or so now most everyone will be normal again.

Those on the winning side are about done celebrating and we losers have recovered.

The campaign certainly created a lot of excitement and gave many persons something to talk about besides the weather.

The outcome also resulted in at least two local men paying off "unusual" election bets, by "performing" on Baltimore street.

Before another election rolls around, Chatter would like to see voting machines in the county.

Montgomery county, using the machines for the first time Tuesday, reported the complete vote by 10 o'clock election night.

Here in Allegany county only fifty-nine of seventy-five precincts had reported at 4 a. m. Wednesday and the county tabulation was not completed until Wednesday afternoon.

The sons of Calvin Perdew of Plintstone must be crack shots. On the opening day of the hunting season Calvin, Jr., 12, bagged an eight-pound turkey and Tuesday his twin brother Charles killed an eight-pound turkey near his home.

Committee Will Acquaint Grocers With Stamp Plan

Letters Explaining New Proposal for Cumberland Are Authorized

A special committee named to investigate the practicability of inaugurating the Food Stamp Plan in Allegany county conferred yesterday at the chamber of commerce.

The plan was introduced Wednesday night in Cumberland before a number of grocers and representative business men. It is sponsored by the Department of Agriculture and is intended to increase the purchasing power of WPA workers and those on relief.

While business men who attended the initial meeting were interested, it was decided a larger representative group should be contacted before anything definite was decided. A committee was named to do this.

The committee decided to write a letter to all grocers in the county acquainting them with the plan and asking them to attend a meeting Nov. 14 at city hall. The letters will be distributed by salesmen for the larger wholesale firms who will be able to explain the plan when they distribute the letters.

According to a representative of the federal government, the stamp plan, if adopted here, would mean $20,000 worth of increased business to district grocers.

The stamp plan, already in operation in many cities of the country, was made possible by a $90,000,000 federal appropriation for the purpose of moving surplus food raised by the county's farmers.

The business increase is caused by a federal donation of fifty cents on each dollar of relief money and WPA wages.

Freedom of Press Will Be Debated Here on Sunday

The Club of Human Relations has announced that William L. Geppert and Dr. Robert T. Kerlin, will debate the subject "Do We Have a Free Press?" on Cumberland's Town Meeting of the Air, over WFOB Sunday afternoon from 5 to 5:45 o'clock.

Mr. Geppert, editor of the Cumberland News will take the affirmative side and Dr. Kerlin, of the Extension Staff of Western Maryland college, the negative. Dr. Kerlin was formerly a member of the faculty of Potomac State College at Keyser, W. Va.

Following the debate an open forum will be held and questions telephoned to the studio will be answered.

Dr. William Barrow To Conduct Baby Clinic in Ridgeley

Dr. William Barrow will conduct a well baby clinic in the WPA office, in the city hall in Ridgeley, Wednesday afternoon Nov. 13 from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m.

Children up to school age will be given physical examination and immunized for smallpox and diphtheria.

Keyser Man Taken To Hospital Here

Albert Umstot, 67, of RFD 1, Keyser, W. Va., was admitted to Memorial hospital yesterday afternoon after he fell from the curb of a local street.

Hospital attendants said Umstot suffered a heart condition. He was taken to the hospital by Clinton G. Brotemarkle, 208 East Laing avenue.

33,853 Ballots Cast Tuesday in Allegany County

Seventy-Six Per Cent of Registered Voters Took Part in Election

A total of 33,853 Allegany county citizens, or seventy-six per cent of the registered voters, cast ballots in Tuesday's presidential election according to the Board of Election Supervisors who completed their official tabulation late last night at the court house.

No "upsets" were revealed by the official count according to Lawrence Hewitt, clerk to the board. The official results were announced as follows:

For President
